P R E F A C E.

DURING the period of the civil war, and later, until the reins of government were seized and held by the firm hand of Oliver Cromwell, the fortunes of Englishmen were greatly at the mercy of Parliamentary Committees. The records of some of these committees have come down to us in good preservation, whilst of others, the order books, which form the backbone of the whole, are wanting; and of some, though the order books are preserved, the original papers are wanting.

The Army Committee was a potent element, because to it was mainly entrusted the regulation of public expenditure; but its order books are absent, and its only records consist of large numbers of warrants, scattered among 300 bundles of Interregnum Exchequer Papers, which are now in process of arrangement.

Another committee was that for taking the Accounts of the kingdom. It was formed 22 Feb. 1644, and consisted of 25 members.¹ Without its examination and approval, no accounts could be passed. All accounts for arrears of officers and soldiers, expenses of garrisons, &c., as well as of civil expenditure, passed through the hands of this committee. But here again the sole records remaining in the Record Office are letters and papers scattered among the 300 bundles of Exchequer Papers. These two committees belong rather to the department of the Exchequer than to that of general history.

There were also Committees of Safety; for Removing Obstructions in the sale of Delinquents' lands; and for relief of those who surrendered on Articles of War, of which only casual records remain.

The Committees of which the records are sufficiently complete to render a calendar practicable, are,

1. Committee for Advance of Money.
2. Sequestration Committee.
3. Committee for Plundered Ministers.

4. Committee for Compounding with Delinquents.
5. Derby House Committee, or Committee for both Kingdoms.
6. Committee for Indemnity.
7. Committee for Sale of Fee-farm Rents or Crown Lands.

The Derby House Committee really represented the governing power on the Parliamentary side during the civil war, and its records are being calendared by Mr. W. D. Hamilton, with those of the closing years of Charles I. An account of the other Committees will be given with their respective calendars.¹

The first in order of date was that for Advance of Money, its object being to furnish the sinews of war to the Parliament party. It was appointed 26 November 1642, on a previous order in Parliament of 14 November, that the Public faith of the kingdom should be given for repayment, with 8 per cent. interest, of all loans of money advanced for the public service. Among the 16 original members occur the names of 5 peers and 4 knights, but several others were added later (p. 1).

The officers of the Committee were,

1. Treasurer, at 150*l.* a year, with percentage on receipts.
2. Clerk or secretary, at 4*l.* a week, with the benefit of the copying of orders, which was considerable after it became a rule of the Committee that all petitions or requests made to it should be accompanied by an official copy of the last order in the case.
3. Registrar, at 150*l.* a year.
4. Legal counsellor, at 150*l.* a year.
5. Examiner of witnesses, at 100*l.* a year.
6. Six attendants or collectors, who were allowed 6*s.* 8*d.* a day when on duty, 6*d.* in the pound on all moneys brought in by them, and their travelling expenses.

The meetings of the Committee were first held at the Hall of the Haberdashers' Company in Gresham Street, which was hired for the purpose, at a rental of 60*l.* (p. 88), then at Sir Wm. Bruncard's house, Old Palace, or the Queen's Court, Westminster (p. 995), but after its amalgamation with the Committee for Compounding with delinquents, in 1650, it returned to Haberdashers' Hall, where its treasury had remained all along (pp. 62, 76, 221).

¹ A fuller notice of these Committees is printed in the preface to the Calendar of State Papers, 1649-1650, pp. vii.-xii.

A sub-committee was also appointed by the civic authorities of London to raise assessments in the several wards. It consisted of 26 members, whose meetings were held in Weavers' Hall, Basinghall Street (pp. 1, 2). They received weekly contributions for the expenses of the war. They appointed their own assessors and collectors for the respective wards.

On 7 January 1643, Parliament issued a declaration, to be read in the churches, urging the necessity of a present subscription, in money or plate, to the war expenses, the money to be paid in four instalments, on Public Faith Bills for principal and interest at 8 per cent. (p. 11). Frequently Parliament was in such straits for money, that sums were borrowed, for a few days or months only, from private persons or city companies.

The efforts of the Committee for Advance of Money to procure supplies were at first chiefly limited to residents within 20 miles of London, but occasionally the counties which embraced the side of the Parliament sent liberal contributions, or were called into question for not doing so (pp. 3, 12, 14).

The ratio of the assessment was $\frac{1}{30}$ of the real, and $\frac{1}{5}$ of the personal estate; but the estimates being founded on property or income, without reduction for the lowering of the value of both by the critical and uncertain position of public affairs, were often so much too high that instances of their payment in full are extremely rare; although one occurs whose assessment of 10*l.* was reduced to 5*l.*, but he was "content to pay the whole."

An examination of the assessment books, Nos. 61 to 73, which give in parallel columns the sums assessed, the sums already contributed, and the sums remaining to be paid, will prove that the actual receipts bear a small proportion to the assessments laid. From two account books, Nos. 51 and 74, an estimate can be formed of sums assessed, and sums actually paid, between 24 June 1643 and 1 July 1644. The receipts were 260,306*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.*; the unpaid balance of the sums demanded was nearly 6 times as much, being 1,418,299*l.*

Sums already lent to Parliament were allowed on account of assessment when the receipts could be produced, or when affidavits were taken that they had not been disposed of, by "doubling or otherwise." The phrase of doubling refers to a skilful device by means of which Parliament paid its debts by exacting more money. To any one producing a Public Faith Bill, and paying again as much as its value, lands from forfeited estates in Ireland or elsewhere were transferred, to the full value of the double sums. Large contributors occasionally accepted this mode of repayment, rather than trust to the uncertain discharge of their Public Faith Bills.

The collectors were ordered to serve the summonses for payment of assessments on the persons concerned, and the grant of the Public Faith was conditional on payment ten days after the summons. In case of failure, orders were issued for seizure and sale of goods, and for seizure of houses and lands, till the amount of assessment was paid. The houses were either let, or turned into a refuge for those who lost their houses owing to their adherence to the King's party.¹

Some endeavoured to elude payment by conveying away their goods, and some by absenting themselves, thus putting the collectors to great expense and trouble. The Committee retaliated by ordering the offenders to pay all expenses incurred by the distress levied upon their goods, including an extra allowance to the collectors of 3*d.* in the pound on moneys thus brought in. The goods were to be carried to Guildhall, and after due advertisement, to be sold "by the candle."² This phrase alludes to a practice, fallen into desuetude, of sale by auction, a bid being absolute as soon as a candle lighted expired. One large purchaser of such goods was accused of placing himself too near the candle, and by some indirect means, blowing it out! (p. 129).

The difficulties incurred by assessment collectors in getting in the assessments are given in detail on pp. 30, 31. In case of there being "no distress,"—that is, no property forthcoming on which the assessments could be levied by distraint, the persons assessed were to be taken into custody, and detained till payment was made.³

In June 1643, a sub-committee was appointed for mitigation of assessments that were considered too high, but a hearing from this committee could only be obtained on payment in deposit of half the sum assessed.

The affidavit of the person assessed was frequently taken and accepted, as to the amount of his property, deducting debts incurred before June 1642, but should the affidavit prove false, he was condemned to pay the total amount of the primary assessment.¹ Should it be proved that the $\frac{1}{2}$ deposited was the full proportion, it was accepted as such; if less, then the balance was to be paid; if more, the surplus was returned.²

Mitigations were sometimes granted on family reasons,³ and mitigations, sometimes extending to discharges, to those who had performed services,⁴ or had supplied money, horses, arms, or goods, for Parliament for which they were not paid,⁵ or who had suffered heavy losses by the King's troops, the billeting of soldiers, &c.⁶

Discharges were also frequently granted to those who had been previously assessed in London, and had paid their assessments;⁷ also to those who had country as well as town residences, and had paid their assessments in the country.⁸

The Committee for Advance of Money granted respite or postponement of assessment in cases where the persons assessed were away from England, especially when on Parliament service,⁹ also when their estates were in counties occupied by the King's troops,¹⁰ or when they were under sequestration for delinquency.¹¹

Sometimes, though seldom, persons who had shown good affection to Parliament were freed from assessment, and left to their voluntary contributions, and sometimes they were discharged by direct Order from Parliament.¹ Discharge was also granted by Parliament to those included in the Articles of War granted on surrender of Exeter, Truro, Oxford, &c.²

The only persons exempted from assessment were those whose total property did not exceed 100*l.* in value, and this exemption was frequently granted on the affidavit of the persons.³ Members of either House of Parliament and attendants on the House of Peers were to be assessed, not by the Committee for Advance of Money, but by their respective Houses.

During the first 15 months of its existence, the proceedings of the Committee for Advance of Money were mainly confined to assessments; but in February 1645, it was ordered that informations might be entered before it against those delinquents who had been sequestered and had, in compounding for delinquency, concealed any part of their estate, or of the debts due to them. Ordinary discoverers were allowed $\frac{1}{3}$ of the money brought in on their discoveries. In the cases of officers and others who had arrears due to them from Parliament, it was a frequent practice to settle their accounts in a manner that should not draw upon government resources, but add to them. They were promised $\frac{1}{3}$, $\frac{1}{2}$, and even, very occasionally, the whole clear benefit derived from the estates of delinquents to be discovered by them,— $\frac{1}{2}$ being the most frequent proportion (pp. 41, et seq.),—the remainder accruing to the State.

A few months proved however that this arrangement gave rise to untrue accusations, and therefore no one was permitted to enter a discovery without a personal recommendation by an M.P., signed by the Speaker (pp. 43, 44).—The informations were entered in official books, and each entry was signed by the informer. Later on, informers were obliged to enter into a bond, generally in 200*l.*, to prosecute their informations, and those who dropped prosecutions, compounded with the persons concerned to desist prosecution, or suborned witnesses, were made liable to imprisonment (p. 83).

The proceedings of this Committee as to assessments were at first made without distinction of party, except so far as that those who had voluntarily contributed with liberality to Parliament funds were exempted. Gradually, as the Parliament party gained strength in the country, delinquents,—as the Royalists were called—were more frequently subject to this taxation. On 6 August 1646, an Order in the House of Commons was issued that the officers of the Committee for Compounding should certify the names of all those who by composition had acknowledged their delinquency, and that all these should be assessed for their $\frac{1}{20}$ (p. 56).

On 25 August following, assessments were limited to those who had been delinquents, or who had not contributed in any place to Parliament (p. 56). On 5 June 1648, a still more important Order was passed in Parliament, viz., that the $\frac{1}{5}$ and $\frac{1}{20}$ should not be levied excepting on those delinquents who were within the Ordinance of Sequestration; but this order was not to be retrospective, or to prevent the payment of assessments already ordered (p. 70).

On March 13 following (1649), it was ordered that all delinquents who compounded, if assessed, should be taxed according to the particulars of their estates, presented and signed by themselves at Goldsmiths' Hall, their allegations of debts, &c., to be subject to the judgment of the Committee for Advance of Money (p. 74). The composition was considered, however, to free them from assessment, provided the fine was fully paid up, but in case of failure in payment of the second half, the assessment was imposed.

In April 1650, an entire change was made in the personnel of the Committee for Advance of Money; the former Commissioners were dismissed, and replaced by—

These were the men who were on the Committee for Compounding, and the title of the Committee for Advance of Money was enlarged to Committee for Sequestration and Advance of Money, and for Compounding with delinquents, the former Sequestration Committee being abolished.

Although efforts were made to keep distinct the business of the two Committees for Advance of Money and Compounding, it followed almost inevitably that confusion arose, and orders in cases begun in one committee were given in the other.

This was the more easy because the course of business so often led from the one committee to the other in the following routine:—A delinquent was informed against in the Committee for Advance of Money and convicted.

The delinquent then applied for his composition to the Committee for Compounding.

In case he undervalued his estate in the account he sent in, information of the undervaluation might be presented to the Committee for Advance of Money.

He had then to go back to the Committee for Compounding to compound for the undervaluations.

When it is considered that the same men were on both committees, and that both sat in the same place, the surprise is that mistakes were not more frequent.

The powers of the new Committee for Advance were defined by Parliament Order on 8 Aug. 1650 (pp. 83, 84).

During the years 1650 and 1651, assessments in the country by the county commissioners—which had all along been partially enforced in counties where Parliament authority was recognized,—were more general (pp. 84, 88–100). The last in the large books of assessments which contain the initiation of these proceedings are dated Oct. 1651.

In April 1651, the Committee defined more fully the difference between an order for seizing and securing an estate, and sequestering it. In the former case, the rents of the real estate were stayed in the tenants' hands, and the suspected delinquent was allowed to enjoy his personal estate, on security in double its value, in case he should be convicted of delinquency. In the latter case, the whole property was taken into the hands of the county commissioners, the estates let, and the goods sold. In April 1651 also, Auditor Sherwin issued a series of proposals for the better regulation of the committee's business (p. 91).

As the persons accused of delinquency frequently complained of want of definiteness in the charges preferred, which rendered a defence difficult, or even impracticable, an order was issued on 18 June 1651, that the date, within a year, and the place of the acts of delinquency informed against, should be ascertained (p. 93).

But by this time the country had become so weary of the uncertainty to property attending the proceedings against delinquents, and the tediousness with which they dragged on, that Parliament passed an Act of Pardon and Oblivion, whereby discharges from sequestration were granted to all those whose estates were not actually sequestered 1 Dec. 1651 (pp. 99, 101).

This Act produced a great revolution in the reduction of the numbers of informations, and in the discharge of very numerous cases, both of delinquency and non-payment of assessments, already before the Committee; but it pressed very heavily upon the informers, many of whom had expended considerable sums in the prosecution of cases, which were far advanced towards a hearing, but the estates not sequestered; and as the recompense to informers was solely from the amounts paid in by the delinquents accused by them, they lost not only their expenses but the reward hoped for.

These informers differed much in position and character; we find among them such men as Cols. Hutchinson and Venn, and numerous other officers, and groups of officers and soldiers, who were unable in any other way to obtain their arrears of pay. But some were money hunters, who brought their neighbours into trouble for their own gain; and some vented their malice upon their private enemies by picking holes in their political conduct, and informing against them for delinquency.¹

It cannot be supposed that a Committee whose object was to raise money from the accused would act partially towards them, yet the instances of discharge from sequestration are not very infrequent.

In June 1652, a mandate was issued that the Public Faith should not, without special order, be granted for assessments paid in (p. 105); but on 7 Dec. 1653, certificates for the Public Faith were granted, on the Parliament Order of 12 Aug. 1645, to all who had paid their assessment within the time limited, or had been respited; but not to those against whom proceedings had been taken. This led to numerous requests for Public Faith certificates, from such of the community as still retained a hope that the Public Faith of the Commonwealth was worth anything (p. 112).

From the time of the Protectorate, in December 1653, the powers of all committees were gradually curtailed, and their business diverted and absorbed into Cromwell's hands, until, one by one, they ceased to exist. The latest entry of the proceedings of this Committee is 14 May 1656.

In the general proceedings of the Committee for Advance are placed some entries relating to individual cases, when they seemed needful to illustrate the modus operandi of the committee, although in a few instances, they are repeated in the case itself.

In reference to the cases brought before the Committee for Advance of Money, especially those relating to assessments, they were so numerous that, had they all been calendared, the present volumes must have extended to seven or eight. A selection of these only is therefore given; they comprise—

1. Noblemen, baronets, knights, and ladies.
2. All those whose assessments amounted to 1,000*l.*, and who, therefore, were considered to be worth 20,000*l.*, equal to 80,000*l.* or 100,000*l.* in our days.
3. Ministers of churches.
4. Men whose names were known in the legal, literary, diplomatic, or official circles of the period.
5. Cases in which there are several original papers, as well as entries in the order books.
6. Cases which occur, though they may not begin, in the later order books, thereby leading to the presumption that the parties are delinquents.

Any persons seeking information about names of persons assessed, especially those resident in London, not occurring in the index to these volumes, should consult the indexes to the six assessment books, A 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, and 72.

The mode of calendaring adopted for the cases, to secure at once brevity and clearness, and to avoid repetitions, is to place the case under the date of the earliest entry relating to it, and then to add all the other proceedings in order of date. All petitions and the principal orders in the case are calendared, and the references placed in the right-hand margin. Orders of minor importance—as those for respite or hearing of a case, or for confirmation of former orders—are not calendared, but the references to them placed in the left-hand margin. In that margin are also placed references to the evidences on which the orders are grounded, as letters from the county committees, depositions, reports, &c. Any searcher wishing to follow out a case in full should look over these papers.

Occasionally the depositions contain particulars of historical interest relating to the civil war, especially to the proceedings before and after the battle of Worcester. The reports frequently contain details valuable for family pedigree, whilst the particulars of estates and debts give full accounts of the financial position of the individual concerned.

The contractions used in the left-hand margin are—

The first of the large books of assessment on which the majority of the assessment cases are based, does not begin till June 1643, but there are several cases of assessment before this date, though no note exists of the laying of the assessment. After June 1643, the cases usually begin with the laying of the assessment, orders for deposit, or for hearing on payment of the $\frac{1}{2}$, and then discharge on payment of the second half, and frequently of collectors' salary and charges, or of the percentage of 6*d.* in the pound granted to the County Commissioners.

The discharge on payment was by no means an exemption from future charges, as persons were frequently assessed two, three, or four times. Sometimes, however, a later assessment was discharged because of an earlier one. Some cases terminated within a few weeks or months; others dragged on for years.

Delays occurred more especially where there were debts due to the persons concerned, which were claimed in payment of their assessment, or forfeited for their delinquency; each debtor was summoned to pay the debt to the Committee for Advance of Money, who, for the sake of securing the money, often remitted part of the debt. The debtors refused to pay unless their bonds, securities, or mortgages could be delivered up to them. In troublous times these had often been lost or mislaid, and the creditors were naturally reluctant to give them up, when they received no benefit from the payment.¹

The cases of concealed or undervalued estates of delinquents, and also of delinquency, usually commence with informations. These are followed up by orders to the county commissioners to make inquiries, then a return of depositions on the case, publication of proofs, and a final decision. The cases were frequently prolonged owing to delay on the part of the prosecutor, or of the county commissioners; sometimes to the difficulty of obtaining evidence, or to a determination on the part of the accused person to weary out his prosecutor. If the cases were thus protracted without sequestration to the close of 1651, the delinquent obtained his discharge on the Act of Pardon.

On pp. xix. to xxiv. will be found a complete list of the books and papers of the Committee for Advance of Money, noting how far their contents are embodied in the present calendar; but it should be observed that, though many books are noted as not calendared, it is because all the important information in them occurs in other books which have been calendared. To this list is appended a note of directions for the guidance of searchers.

It has been found necessary to divide this Committee's Calendar into three parts, but the pagination is consecutive, and one Index includes the whole Calendar.

The contents, especially the general proceedings (pp. 1-113), afford frequent elucidations of the history of the period; while to the genealogist and the topographer, the cases open out a mine of information.

All the leading families of the country will be able to ascertain, directly or indirectly, the side taken by their ancestry in the great civil strife. If they took the Parliament side, they will not be found here, unless falsely accused; but if they were Royalists—as were most of the landed proprietors—details, often curious and interesting, will be found relating to them, their families, and their estates. The cases of the Duke of Buckingham (pp. 523–541); Thomas, Lord Coventry, and his sons (pp. 1363–1369); William, Lord Craven (pp. 297–299); the Marquis of Worcester (pp. 208–217); and the Countess of Derby (pp. 1,295–1,298) may be cited as illustrative.

The Yorkshire and Oxford Engagements illustrate the position of the Royalists. Merchants and moneyed men were willing to advance loans, but they required better security than the King's privy seals. The noblemen and gentry around him therefore became guarantors, and signed bonds making themselves personally responsible for the return of the money lent. The outcome was unfortunate for both parties. The guarantors were obliged to pay to the State half the sums for which they had made themselves responsible, even though in a few cases the creditors had claimed and recovered the debts, and the lenders found their debts sequestered, and were summoned to deliver up their bonds, and thus disabled from recovering their money by law (pp. 907–941, 996–1,005).

The topographer also will find a store of information; these records make it easy to ascertain in what counties the King's party or the Parliament party prevailed. London, its city companies, and its streets, parishes, wards, and buildings occupy much space, owing to the fact that the earlier assessments were mainly limited to the city.

The records of the two Committees that follow that for the Advance of Money in point of date are far from perfect. Of the Sequestration Committee the order books, seven in number, are all in existence, but very few of the original papers. They are comprised in four bundles.

As to the Committee for Plundered Ministers, there are only two volumes of its proceedings, one a regular order book, but only extending from 1646 to the early part of 1647. The other, a collection of orders bound together, forming a thick volume, and dating from December 1645 to October 1653. Many of this Committee's orders are scattered among the composition papers,—a portion of the fine of the compounders being frequently transmuted into a settlement of income upon neighbouring ministers,—and there is also a bundle of loose orders and papers relating to it.

It is not at present intended to print a Calendar of these records. The next Committee to be dealt with is, - therefore the Committee for Compounding with Delinquents, by far the largest and most important of the Commonwealth's Committees.

LIST OF BOOKS AND RECORDS OF THE COMMITTEE FOR ADVANCE OF MONEY.

- A 1 to 10.—Order books of the committee from 26 Nov. 1642 to 27 June 1651. [Folio.] The next order book, from June to Dec. 1651, is missing, but its place is partially supplied by the draft minute book, No. 17.
- A 11 to 13.—Like order books from 5 Dec. 1651 to 4 Sept. 1655. [Folio.]
- A 14.—Entries of Parliament Orders relating to the Committee for Advance of Money, and its orders thereon, 1643 and 1644. Calendared. [Folio.]
- A 15.—Committee for Advance of Money's orders relating to Huish Hospital, 1645 to 1647. Calendared. [Folio.]
- A 16 to 20.—Draft minutes of the order books, May 1643 to May 1656. Those portions are calendared which supply the missing order book, June to Dec. 1651, and those which in No. 20 go beyond the entries in the order books. Also references are made occasionally, when the minute book is much fuller than the order book. [Small folio.]
- A 21 to 23.—Books of informations against delinquents, March 1645 to July 1655. All calendared except the names of the informers. [Folio.]
- A 24 and 25.—Letter books of the Committee for Advance of Money, May 1648 to March 1656. All calendared. [Folio.]
- A 26. Account book of acquittances granted to persons who paid, in part, or in total, deducting abatements granted, the sums assessed on them for their $\frac{1}{5}$ and $\frac{1}{10}$. The earlier portion gives the sum assessed and a reference to the assessment book in which they are entered, and also adds up the sums paid, but the latter part is less carefully done. There are references to an acquittance book and an order book, not identified, and to a cash book which is No. 55. Not calendared. [Long narrow folio, 145 written and many blank pages.]
- A 27. Index to the above, but note that the names indexed include both those on the right hand and on the left hand leaf of the book. [Long narrow folio.]

- A 28. Entry book of orders of summons for the appearance of witnesses against delinquents, and in a few cases, of the delinquents themselves. Nov. 1649—Feb. 1653. All calendared under their respective cases, except a few which afford no clue to the cases in which they were to appear. [Small folio.]
- A 29. Tables of persons informed against for delinquency, arranged in counties, with brief notes of the proceedings. Referred to only where the orders in the cases are wanting. [Large folio.]
- A 30 and 31. "Causes to be heard in course," being notes of cases brought before the Committee for Advance of Money, with the dates when they will probably come to their turn for a hearing, from Oct. 1649 to July 1655. The notes are nearly consecutive for the Wednesdays and Fridays on which the Committee sat, and on many pages the date is entered, but the rest of the page left blank. The cases appear in the order books of the Committee. Not calendared. [Small folio and oblong folio.]
- A 32. Lists, arranged in alphabetical order of counties, of persons in England and Wales (exclusive of London) who have not paid their 20th part, and notes of proceedings against them thereupon; with list of those who are discharged or dead. 1650 to 1652. Not calendared. [Large folio.]
- A 33. Alphabetical entries¹ of persons ordered to pay money on their 20th parts, Dec. 1650 to Jan. 1651, together with the times of paying the same, and a few notes of proceedings. Very few entries. Not calendared. [Thin folio.]
- A 34. Alphabetical lists of compounders for assessments, Sept. 1652—Dec. 1656, with certificates in a few cases. Calendared when containing information not given elsewhere. [Large folio, thin.]
- A 35. Modern index to the order books A 1—5 of the Committee for Advance of Money. [4to.]
- A 36. Ditto to A 6 to 25, 28, 29, and 34. [4to.]
- A 37. Lists of persons distrained in London for non-payment of assessments. Feb. 1643 to March 1644. Not calendared. [Small folio.]
- A 38 to 42. Account books of receipts in detail from assessments in London and Middlesex, Feb. 1643 to July 1647, but without any summary. Not calendared. [Small folio.]

¹ It should be noted that alphabetical lists at this time were only alphabetical as to the first letter of the name, and are, therefore, immeasurably more tedious to consult than a modern index.

- A 43. Lists of persons assessed in Middlesex, divided into the respective hundreds. On p. 50 is a list of 18 persons who formed the county commissioners, and of 6 more who were moderators; on p. 51, a note of persons thought fit to give instructions to the commissioners in the several hundreds; and on p. 52, a list of 7 persons whose assessments were moderated on better information. Not calendared. [Small folio, thin.]
- A 44. Alphabetical list of "persons discharged on the Act of General Pardon since 4th March 1652," so labelled. A paper inserted at the beginning gives a list of 11 persons discharged of delinquency upon hearing their cases at Haberdashers Hall, Feb. 13 to Aug. 6, 1652. The names are arranged by the initial letter; they are from all parts of England. The entries give surname and christian name, date, and from what discharged, whether payment of assessment or delinquency; there are 11 names under the letter A; 25 under B, &c.
- At the beginning is the following:—"Md. that a list was given to the auditor of the persons discharged, unto the 12th of Oct. 1652; and after that I stroke a line through his book, and they that are after the line are such as are since discharged." The total number below the line is 12, the latest date is 19 Oct. 1653, showing that only 12 had been discharged during that year. Not calendared. [Narrow folio.]
- A 45. Alphabetical list of persons whose estates were discharged on the Act of Pardon, April 1652—July 1656, with references to the counties, of which a numbered list is prefixed, in which the property in question was situated. Not calendared. [Narrow folio.]
- A 46. Alphabetical list of residents in London, the street generally given, with the sums at which they are respectively assessed, or to be assessed, varying from 5*l.* to 5,000*l.*; 58 written pages, and about 60 names on a page. This portion is undated. Then follows a similar list for an assessment 3 March 1644, 4 pages, but not giving the streets. Not calendared. [Narrow folio.]
- A 47. Account of the 50 subsidies levied in the several wards of London in 1643, granted by an Act of Common Council, on an Ordinance of Parliament. It gives the persons assessed, the sums assessed on each, and occasionally notes of payments made. With an index of the wards prefixed. Not calendared. [Folio, 278 pp., many blank.]
- A 48. Accounts for the several wards of London of the raising of moneys on the Ordinance of Parliament of 29 Nov. 1642. It gives, in parallel columns, the names of the ward residents, the sums they are "content to advance," generally nothing, date of notice given, date of expiration of the time limited for payment, the sums paid in, allowance made for sums paid towards the loan of 30,000*l.*, and for sums lent formerly. The sums assessed are added up in most of the wards, but not the sums paid. Not calendared. [Large folio, 158 pp., many blank.]

- A 49. Accounts for the several wards of London of sums ordered to be levied on the assessments for the $\frac{1}{20}$ parts, Dec. 1642 to March 1643, giving in parallel columns the person, sum assessed, sum paid, sums allowed on loans and contributions, and sums abated. With notes of proceedings in the cases up to July 1643. In this book, the sums paid are added up on each page, and on p. 78 the total is given, viz., 72,006*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.* The first 4 pages contain lists of the assessors appointed for the several wards. Not calendared. [Large folio, 80 pp., and a few blank at the end.]
- A 50. Rough draft of the preceding volume. Not calendared. [Large folio, 83 pp., and a few blank at the end.]
- A 51. Account of persons assessed for their $\frac{1}{5}$ and $\frac{1}{20}$, from 24 June 1643 to 1 July 1644, giving in parallel columns the persons assessed, the references to books A to C,—being Nos. 61, 63, and 65 of this series,—in which the assessment was ordered, the sums paid in respectively to the Guildhall Treasurers, Sam. Gosse, Laurence Newman, and Wm. Lane, and the names of the respective collectors. Gosse has few entries, and Lane none. The total paid to Newman was 67,875*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, to the treasurers, 42,000*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.*, making a total of 109,875*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.* All the important cases occur in the calendar. [Large folio, 141 pp., and numerous blank leaves.]
- A 52. Index to the preceding volume. [Small folio.]
- A 53. Newman's cash book, containing an account of his daily receipts from 26 June 1643 to 5 April 1644. A very large proportion of these moneys are entered in vol. 51, as paid to the Guildhall Treasurers. Not calendared. [Large folio, 51 written, and very numerous blank pages.]
- A 54. Index of the above. [Folio, thin.]
- A 55. Newman's cash book, from 26 June 1643 to 29 June 1644. This book, from p. 1 to the latter end of p. 51, is a duplicate of No. 53, but it carries down the accounts nearly 3 months later. The total of the receipts was 117,724*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.* The payments, on pp. 91–97, were 67,316*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.*, being for return of assessments ordered to be repaid, provisions for war, sums sent to the Guildhall Treasurers, &c. [Large folio, thin, 73 written and many blank pages.]
- A 56. Index to the receipt portion of the preceding book. [Folio, thin.]
- A 57. Book of payments made by Laurence Newman, treasurer to the Committee for Advance of Money, from August 1643 till his death, June 1644. This book was compiled after his decease, for the settlement of his accounts. Calendared in the Warrants for payment of money. [Folio.]

- A 58. Entry book of the journeys of collectors for sequestered estates, July 1643 to May 1650, stating the date, the places where they went, and their errands; viz., to deliver tickets of assessment, and summonses for appearance, to seize and sequester estates, &c., with the periods of their respective absences. Not calendared. [Small folio.]
- A 59. "An account of such persons to whom the Public Faith is given for money paid by them to the Committee of Lords and Commons for Advance of Money and other necessities for the army, at Haberdashers' Hall, upon the Ordinances for the 20th part and 5th part, according to an Ordinance of Parliament dated 12 Aug. 1645," being a list of 1,225 lenders of sums varying from 30s. to 3,000*l.*, noting such as paid within the limited time, or lent without interest, from Sept. 1645 to Jan. 1654. Also list of 382 certificates given by Martin Dallison, registrar of the Committee for Advance of Money, certifying the sums paid on the 20th and 5th parts, noting whether they were paid within the limited time or not, and whether on distress, or levied out of rents. Issued on an order of the committee, prefixed, of 8 March 1654, because divers persons had no certificates to enter their claims for the said debts. Also on the last leaf, form of a Public Faith Bill, and notes of 10 persons to whom copies were given for sums specified. 1646 to 1654. Not calendared. [Large folio, not paged. Numerous blank leaves.]
- A 60. Index to the former part of the preceding volume, the references being given by dates. [Narrow folio.]
- A 61 to 73. Seven large folio volumes, with the respective indexes, to the first 6 (small folio) of assessments laid, chiefly in London and Middlesex, but later on in other counties, between 21 June 1643 and Oct. 1651. GENERAL PROCEEDINGS.

 Nov. 14. others have advanced large sums of money and other supplies for the safety of the King, Parliament, and kingdom, and have also set forth many soldiers under the Earls of Essex and Warwick: yet for the better safety of King, Parliament, and City, and no way hindering the former intentions, divers of the said well-affected persons are willing to raise some soldiers, and maintain them for several months during these times of danger, provided they may have the Public Faith of the kingdom for repayment of such loans;—Parliament accepts their service, and engages the Public Faith of the kingdom for repayment of all such loans with interest, and orders the Lord Mayor and sheriffs to appoint sub-committees to take the subscriptions, and order the performance of this service. You, with the treasurers of parishes, are to assemble from time to time, holding your Court at Weavers' Hall, or elsewhere, to collect subscriptions by monthly payments, beginning from 1 December, and to deal with the deputies, common councilmen, churchwardens, and all others of the several wards and parishes in and about London, and particularly those wards, &c., that have not yet chosen treasurers or committees, to forward the work. Six shall be a quorum; but to promote the business, the majority of you should be present. You may appoint your own collectors of subscriptions. [A 1, pp. 30-32.]

- Nov. 28. 1. List of 38 parishioners of St. Peter's, Cornhill, who lend, on the Lord Mayor's order of 26 November, sums varying from 30*l.* to 1*l.* [1 column.]
- Nov. 29. 2. Note by Mr. Mayden of sums promised by the churchwardens, some named, of Mildred Poultry and 40 other parishes, varying from 38*l.* to 3,419*l.* [total 13,975*l.* 10*s.*]. With note that only 77 parishes have sent in returns, and that of 45 he has no account. [2½ pages.]

- Nov. P 4. Request that the Ordinance of 29 November for assessments be enlarged to places adjacent the City, in Middlesex and Surrey, and within 3 miles compass. The well-affected of those places find a general refractoriness in the inhabitants to contributions, and it is a discouragement to them when the refractory contribute not. [1 page.]
- Dec. 1. 5. List of 20 inhabitants of Wapping who have promised to lend sums, varying from 3*l.* to 50*l.* each, and of 49 more, who have paid in sums varying from 10*s.* to 20*l.* Total of the latter 141*l.* 4*s.* [1 sheet.]
- Dec. 1. Order that the collectors in London, Westminster, and Southwark, for subscriptions of money and to plate on the propositions of Parliament, attend on 5 December, with an account of what has been brought in from each parish, and by whom, and what is behind hand that was promised of those who have not subscribed for the loan, being men of ability, or have not done it in proportion to their estates. This notice to be printed and sent to the collectors of each ward and parish.
- The churchwardens of each parish to bring in an account of the present loan of moneys on Saturday. Also the collectors for weekly subscriptions for maintaining soldiers.
- Captain Hoskin to make 6 tons of musket bullets of bastard size, 15-18 to the pound, by to-morrow night. Noted as performed. [A 1, pp. 22-24.]

- Also to the knights of Middlesex and burgesses of Southwark and Westminster, to call such as are to name assessors in the out-parishes, and return their names on Monday.

Also repair to those who do not attend the meeting, and take their subscriptions, and give account to the sub-committee at Weavers' Hall, Basinghall Street, before 14 December, returning the names of refusers. Also that they choose a treasurer to bring in the weekly and monthly collections to the sub-committee, whose directions they are to obey. The Public Faith of the kingdom is engaged for repayment of the said sums advanced, with interest for the forbearance. This order to be printed and sent to the parishes. With note that it was sent to the liberty of East Smithfield, to return their subscriptions by 31 December. [A 1, pp. 25, 26.]

- Dec 3. 6. Draft of the above, much corrected, signed by Lord Say and Sele, Lord Wharton, and Sir H. Vane. [$\frac{1}{2}$ pp.]
- Dec. 3. 7. Note by Thomas Clithero, curate, and the churchwardens of St. Giles in the Fields, that the Order of Parliament being given out in the church to six persons named, they promised sums amounting to 38*l.* [$\frac{2}{3}$ p.]
- Dec. 3. 8. Note of sums collected from 19 persons in Bridewell parish. Total 48*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* [$\frac{1}{2}$ p.]
- Dec. 3. Warrant from the Committee of Safety to the Lord Mayor, sheriffs, and other commissioners for weekly subscriptions from the parishes of London, for raising men and arms for defence of the City and kingdom, for payment of 3,400*l.* to Richard Shute, treasurer of the committee, for setting forth the dragoons under command of Colonel Richard Browne, on account for the regiment of dragoons already levied under his command. Endorsed with an order from the mayor and sheriffs, to the treasurer of the said committee, 9 December, for its payment, and receipt thereof by Shute, 16 December. [A 1, pp. 54, 55.]
- Dec. 5. List of 110 persons, viz. from 3 to 10 in each of the several parishes named in the order of 3 December, to whom the promoting of weekly pay was committed.
 Notice from the Committee for Advance of Money to the persons above-named, with the churchwardens and constables, to act in pursuance of orders sent, which will be an acceptable service, and tend much to the safety of King, Parliament, and the whole kingdom.
 Note that with the Order of 3 December, that of 1 December and of 14 November, were sent to the promoters of weekly pay in the parishes within the walls, but to those without, only the order of 14 November; to all the notice of 5 December was sent.

- Dec. 5. Committee for Advance of Money to Sir John Potts and the rest of the deputy lieutenants of County Norfolk. We, being appointed by Parliament to bring in money to supply the pressing occasions of this kingdom, assaulted with many dangers, hear that the loan of moneys in your county has made such happy progress that it has reached 40,000*l.*, which would be a very seasonable supply. We therefore desire you to send up the said sum safely to the treasurers appointed at Guildhall, and to give us notice by the bearer, whom we send up express, when we may expect it, that further guard may be appointed for its safe convoy if needful. This will be a very acceptable service to both Houses of Parliament. [A 1, pp. 32, 33.]

[3 page.]
- July 28. 19. County Commissioners for Lancashire to the Committee for Advance of Money. There was an order of the House that Col. Rigby's soldiers should have the benefit of their discoveries of delinquents towards their arrears. They have deserved well, and we will do our best in any just way to procure them money for their pressing necessities, and therefore will not oppose that order, so that it do not extend to persons sequestrable in this county. The Ordinance of Sequestration is fully executed when the people are well affected, but in Col. Rigby's division, most of the people were sequestrable, but few sequestered, because the condition of the county would not admit it with safety; and few of the County Commissioners had taken their oaths to execute the Ordinance.
It would be very dangerous to proceed till Latham is reduced, and to pay these soldiers most of their arrears, while the rest of the soldiers now on duty have no such provision, would cause mutiny and discontent. If the service at Latham should be deserted, the whole county would be endangered. Therefore, if such be offered to you as concealments, which we think are not, we beg to be heard before you pass them. [1 page.]
- July 28. Whereas the Sequestration Committee for Westminster seized a year ago the Earl of Worcester's house in Long Acre, lately held by the Emperor's agent, which was long before any seizure by this committee, and the Westminster Committee have let it to Maj. Gen. Skippon, on Order in the House of Commons of 12 July instant;—Order confirming this, any previous order notwithstanding, and Sir John Clotworthy to deliver the keys of the house to Mr. Burr, agent of this committee. - July 31. 20. Col. Alex. Rigby to the Committee for Advance of Money. I am much grieved by the necessities of my poor distressed soldiers, so faithful to the public amidst many discouragements, and at last I got an Order in the House of Commons which did not limit their discoveries to any place, so I thought it best to seek delinquents in co. Lancaster, in the quarters where they had done most service in the division known as mine. I assigned 4,000*l.* to Col. Ralph Ashton's soldiers, and mine helped them to get it in, but this caused no disappointment or mutiny.
It is said that the sequestration Ordinance has been executed in the well-affected part of the county, but that is only parts of Salford and Blackburn Hundreds; Derby Hundred, the largest, abounds in unsequestered estates, and there I sequestered those of the greatest men, but my attendance in several leaguers in 5 months, and other public service diverted my proceeding further. Other sequestration committees often resorted to my division to negotiate for sequestrations, and if any have slipped their hands, they may be^{en} taken as concealments, and their discovery as acceptable to the State. If my soldiers discover them, nothing is diverted from the public, but due arrears are paid to the discoverers, and the rest to the State. It is said that other soldiers are left unprovided for, but Col. Shuttlesworth's, in the next division to me, have the whole benefit of their discoveries. I wish the subscribers of the letter [see No. 19, supra] knew what it is to hear the cry of the soldiers for pay. I hope they will hinder the illegal proceedings of other colonels. If they obstruct my order, and do not examine the delinquencies, I fear the soldiers will disband, to my great grief. [1½ pages.]

- Aug. 1. 21. Commissioners for Lancashire to the Committee for Advance of Money. We will join heartily with Col. Rigby in any course to the equal payment of the arrears of all the soldiers in the county, but we fear the business before you is contrary to that end. We do not know that Col. Shuttleworth has employed sequestration for the arrears of his soldiers, but if he has, we shall oppose him in it. We hear that the whole profits of the country, and a tax of 4,000*l.* a month, which is far above what it is able to pay, will hardly keep them together, but they mutiny and desert the service. There was a division wherein Col. Ashton acted, but it was not allotted to him for payment of his soldiers only; 3,000*l.* of sequestration money was allotted to them, but the soldiers hardly made $\frac{1}{3}$ their money, as it was paid in chairs and stools, and household goods, and it was not an allowance from Col. Rigby, but a debt to Col. Ashton's soldiers, who were most in arrears, and had cleared from the enemy that part which Col. Rigby now takes for his own. Also, Ashton gave him 2 foot companies to begin his regiment, to which he never added 300 more, and has only 1 or 2 officers who were in service when the Earl of Derby was beaten out of the country. Therefore the old soldiers are likely to mutiny, if they see the others paid first. [1½ pages.]

Salisbury. Our memories cannot contain all we would wish to say, but if we were to write at full the slight opinion the county [sequestration?] committee and others countenanced by them have of the Committee for Advance of Money, the vile opposing of their orders, to the threatening us, it would be thought that the King's party would not do as much as has been done or threatened by them. Lest we be thought deficient in maintaining the committee's honour and power, we will hazard the utmost, believing they will not allow us, their servants, to be abused and set at nought, and their orders contradicted. We hope the committee will stand up for themselves, for if we are baffled here, the same must be expected everywhere. These fellows should suffer for their insolency, and defray the charges we are put to by their means. Mr. Coles says he has obtained a judgment and elegit from the Commissioners for Sequestrations for the $\frac{1}{2}$ of Sir Jas. Thynne's estate for the old lady, and half the other $\frac{2}{3}$ for arrears, so that the State should have nothing, and this is since we sequestered the estate. She has carried away 30,000*l.* in money and personalty, and Coles, being both sequestrator and collector, has delayed sequestrating the estate on purpose to advantage Lady Thynne and prejudice the State. They now disturb us as to estates on which there was no former sequestration, but promise forbearance if we will desist from Sir Jas. Thynne's estate. [1 page.]

Was arrested in 1644 by the Cavaliers, carried prisoner to the castle, and condemned to death by a Council of war, on an accusation of seducing their officers to turn to Parliament and giving intelligence to Northampton, &c. Was 4 days alone in a dark dungeon, expecting hourly to be brought to execution, and then 14 weeks prisoner, till it pleased God to deliver him alive. Meantime his shop and house had been ransacked, and all his wares taken for the use of the castle, so he brought his family to London, where they have been living at the charge of friends. [1 page.]

Jos. Tiringham also owes 89*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* for bricks. As both are in town, I beg warrants to [Rob.] Dunscombe to bring them before you to give satisfaction. [$\frac{1}{2}$ page.]

6. Lynam Robins to Mr. Dallison and Cox. Let me have a reply to my last, for the old proverb is fulfilled, "A man takes much care in getting money, and then more care in keeping it." Mr. Griffith and I have got 17,000*l.* or 18,000*l.*, and we cannot get it returned. Pray direct us how to get it to London. Some ask 30*s.* and some 40*s.* per cent. for exchange. [1 page.]

10. Commissioners for Sequestrations for co. Bedford to the Sequestration Committee. As to that part of your letter that concerns moneys received upon sequestration, we have sent up our treasurer herewith to pay in his receipts. The last payment he made was 200*l.* more than he had received, so that we have not been remiss in our payments. The not sending up the schedules of the appraisement of the personal estates of persons sequestered, according to the Ordinance, has rested wholly upon the default of the Solicitor of Sequestrations appointed by the committee, but they shall be sent up by the 25th inst. 12. County Commissioners for Warwickshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. We have received your order, and that of the House of Commons of 10 November, ordering us to pay in all our sequestration money. This county was the first in the kingdom attempted by the enemies, Warwick Castle and Coventry besieged, and divers garrisons of the enemy were in and about the county, which enforced us to raise a greater militia of horse and foot, and erect many more garrisons in this county than in any other about us, both to drive out the enemy and secure the county. This we did partly by taxes and partly by sequestration, which then yielded very little, because none durst be tenants but the owners or their agents, as the enemy seized the cattle of those who rented sequestered estates, and drove them away prisoners; we had therefore to borrow large sums, which are not yet repaid.

Also many of us maintained soldiers at our own charge, for which we have had no recompense, so that all the sequestrations and assessments of the county come very short of the maintaining of the militia, which we carried on till their reducing was ordered by Parliament.

Our treasurer has often given accounts to the Committee of Accounts, and the last time there was 175*l.* due to him. Since the reduction of the militia and taxes, by order of the House, we had to promise the reduced lieutenants and other under-officers a good sum, not yet paid. Also by Parliament Order we have disbursed 1,600*l.* for advance of forces for Ireland, of which we still owe 690*l.*, beside great sums,—for which some Parliamentary men of the committee are engaged—which were borrowed to provide arms and ammunition, and raise forces, when Lord Brooke first took upon him the command of the associated counties of Warwick and Stafford. We have had no moneys from the State, either to pay the militia or disband them when reduced, or to advance money for those that went for Ireland (being 4 foot companies and one troop of horse) when almost all the counties bordering on the enemy have had liberal contributions from the State.

As we have had nothing for our pains, we trust we shall not be left in debt for the public, as we must be if the sequestrations are disposed of before the debts are paid. [2 pages.]

In reply to yours of 15 Jan., requiring us to put in execution all ordinances and instructions concerning sequestrations, and send up a schedule of the estates of Papists and delinquents sequestered, and such money as has been received to the treasurers at Guildhall, we beg to state that Parliament, by their Ordinance of 13 June 1644, taking into consideration the then condition of this county, authorised the commissioners here to apply the moneys so raised for the maintenance of such forces as they should raise for the service of the Parliament, with which forces we have reduced the county to the obedience of Parliament, and have therein expended greater sums than have been, or could be, as yet raised here, and there are yet great sums in arrear to the commanders and officers employed in that service. There is a troop of horse and the two garrisons of Shrewsbury and Ludlow Castle, which are continued until further order, and are to be maintained out of the said sequestered estates. [1 page.]

March 13. Gloucester. 17. Commissioners for Sequestrations for County Gloucester to the Committee for Advance of Money at Haberdashers' Hall. We received your express, requiring us to send up a schedule of the personal estate of all Papists and delinquents within our county, as also of all money received and paid, together with the balance in hand, to the treasurers at Guildhall by the 30th inst., by virtue of the Ordinance of Parliament of 19 August 1643; but the same might have been more properly given by the committee who transacted the work at that time, and who are now dead, removed, or absent, than by us, who are but newly appointed, and strangers to the work; nevertheless, we have examined the records, and sent up the schedules. Though some of the compositions may seem low, we are confident they were made at the time upon very good reasons, as the country was then in a miserable condition. The money you write of the committee have paid, according to an Ordinance of Parliament of 10 May 1664, for maintenance of this garrison, which otherwise could not have been kept up, and have allowance for the same, so that nothing now remains in our hands. We have therefore called before us Edm. Scotten and Jas. - June 5. 76. Note of the obstructions that hinder the levying of the $\frac{1}{10}$ part.
1. The Ordinance prohibiting delinquents to be within 20 miles of London, so that they cannot apply to the committee to settle their assessments.
2. The Ordinance limiting the committee's power to levy the $\frac{1}{10}$ to those who are under sequestration, so that now they must be proved delinquents before they pay the $\frac{1}{10}$, though they never paid elsewhere, or not in proportion to their estates.
3. When they have compounded, they pay their $\frac{1}{5}$ and $\frac{1}{10}$ in the country, and so avoid payment here, though many thousands are charged on this committee, supposing that delinquents pay here.
4. Their debts, chiefly incurred for maintenance of the wars, are averred by them to be so great that, being allowed, there is little left for their $\frac{1}{10}$.
5. The distraction of the times preventing officers from travelling to levy or receive rents.
6. The irregular meeting of the Committee for Advance of Money, because of the great affairs of the Houses.
The remedies proposed are as follows:—
1. Leave for those who have compounded to come to town 10 at a time, for 10 days, to pay their $\frac{1}{10}$.
2. That the Ordinance may extend only to those assessed after its date, not to those assessed before, many of whom, that were not delinquents, were respited till their lands were freed from the power of the King's army, and many are delinquents not sequestered, and never paid their $\frac{1}{10}$, or not in proportion to their estates.
3. That the Ordinance may enforce all that compound at Goldsmiths' Hall to pay their $\frac{1}{5}$ and $\frac{1}{10}$ to the Committee for Advance of Money.
4. That only such debts be allowed as were incurred before 24 June 1642.
The other obstructions will be removed by time, care, and the constant sitting of the committee. [1 $\frac{2}{3}$ pages.]
- June 16. Queen's Court, Westminster. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for York. At the time of the first war against Parliament, the plague being in Cambridge, the College was broken up, and most of the Fellows were sent away, but Crouch, Johnson, and 7 others remained; and taking advantage of the absence of the rest, seized on such plate and moneys as were then in the college, to the value of 500*l.*, and 800 ounces of plate, and carried them to York, to be used in the war against Parliament, to the hazard of life, liberty, and religion. Has long expected that these offenders would be called on to make good the damage to the State and college, but instead of that, they make themselves disposers of all things in the College,—though against its statutes, and the Ordinances of Parliament,—tyrannize over those who have been cordial to Parliament, and abet its foes. Can prove what he says, having long lived in the college; begs that the men may be questioned, the college reformed, and God glorified. [A 21, p. 173.]

- July 4. Committee for Advance of Money to the Commissioners for Compounding. There are many discoveries made to this committee of persons who, either by favour from the County Committees escaped sequestration, or whose delinquencies have been concealed till now, and many of them address you, pretend to have discovered their own delinquencies, and desire to compound on the late votes of Parliament, though there has been a judicial discovery elsewhere, which is an injury to the State. - Sept. 16. The Committee for Advance of Money to "my Lords and Gentlemen"
Painted Chamber. [Council of State.]
By Parliament Order of 16 Oct. last, several well-affected persons advanced money, to be repaid from the compositions of the Duke of Buckingham and William Stafford, but have as yet received nothing. We asked that Stafford's composition should be paid to our treasurer, but the Goldsmiths' Hall Treasurers inform us that they can pay no moneys without your approbation. We therefore beg you to signify to them your consent for this payment, or many persons concerned will be very much prejudiced. [A 24, p. 59.]
- Sept. 20. Order on a Parliament Order of 19 Sept., for 20*s.* a week for 6 months to Mrs. Arthington. [A 7, p. 277.]
- Oct. 23. 22. Statement of Martin Dallison. On presenting my petition for dismissal 19 October, I was ordered to give in my grounds in writing, and to state what allowances I and Dan. Cox have had from the House or this committee.
I became clerk in November 1642. I was at once involved in a multiplicity of employments, so that I was usually at Haberdashers' Hall till 1 a.m., and when I came home, worked till 3, 4, or 5 a.m. This brought on cough, blood-spitting, and disease of the spleen. I lost thereby my profession of public notary, so that the House of Commons settled on me 9*l.* 16*s.* 0*d.* a week during employment. Mr. Cox was my apprentice, and took my place when, in May 1643, I attended the Committee for Mitigation. Your committee, noting his readiness in taking information of those who had not paid their $\frac{1}{20}$, allowed him first $\frac{1}{2}$ d. and then 1*d.* in the pound; and later, when the power of sequestration was in November 1646 given to this committee, he was raised to 4*l.* a week.
My reason for wishing to retire is that now the Mitigation Committee is dissolving, and Cox has really taken up the work in the Committee for Advance of Money, so I am jostled out of employment, and as I am weak, and unable to carry on the full business, I ought not to be chargeable to the State, but it is groundless to suppose I have got an estate by my employment. My expenses have been 368*l.* a year, and I have only received about 100*l.* a year in casualties, as Mr. Cox, without my order or consent, has usurped the signing of papers in my name. These are the grounds on which I beg dismissal. [Draft, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.]
- Oct. 24. Order on his petition showing that weakness disenables him to attend the committee as formerly, that he be dismissed, and Dan. Cox admitted as clerk. [A 7, p. 323.]
- Oct. 24. 23. Petition of Capt. Thos. Robinson, of co. Derby, for $\frac{1}{2}$ of concealed Papists' and delinquents' estates to be discovered by him in his county, according to the Parliament Order thereon, and for an order to the County Committees to examine the cases. Was captain of dragoons, and spent 225*l.* in raising his troop, and lost 268*l.* by the enemy. Has only received 70*l.* 9*s.* 0*d.* for his service, disbursements, and losses, and his estate is in danger of forfeiture for moneys borrowed. [1 page.]

Worcester.

2. Edward Lisle, clerk at Worcester House, to the Committee for Advance of Money. Before I received your order of 24 January, an Act of Parliament came discharging the County Committee for Worcester from further acting, and requesting them to deliver up their books and papers to a Committee for Compounding, to be nominated for the county, which was done, and my place as clerk having ceased, I cannot fulfil your orders about the delinquency of Wm. Langston and Lawrence Hacket. [$\frac{1}{3}$ page.]

Sept. 30.

James's House.

25. Col. John Barkstead to the Committee for Advance of Money. There is a great mistake in the entry of the Parliament Order for Col. Deverenx and myself, it only giving us $\frac{1}{5}$ [of our discoveries], whereas the Parliament Order is for full payment of our arrears therefrom. We must be satisfied in this before we proceed, for if this be not granted; our order is of no value. I would have waived my own part, but the House having fastened my arrears on my discoveries, forbids me to take any other security. Had I been an enemy, and had no arrears due, I could not have had less than $\frac{1}{5}$. I do not doubt your justice, but wish to avoid mistakes. [1 page.]

- 1650? 39. Remedies proposed for obstructions in the proceedings of the Committee for Advance of Money:—
1. Many persons who have made discoveries of delinquents' estates, and are prepared to make more, refrain, because the committee are not empowered to issue the money, and when at great pains and charge, money is received, they have to wait a Parliament Order for its issuing, and this is not easy to obtain, because of the great business on hand, and thus money and estates are lost, or received by the delinquents, and perhaps used against Parliament.
 2. Persons employed by the late Sequestration Commissioners cannot go on without salary and payment of expenses, so that the business is almost at a stand, and the commissioners cannot even procure fire, candles, stationery, &c.
 3. Divers persons could make great discoveries, if allowed the half towards arrears of pay or debts due by Parliament, and this would save a great deal of clamour at the House door for arrears, and greatly lessen the public engagements.

VOL. A LXXXVI. 1651, 1652.

1. Draft minutes of proceedings in the Committee for Advance of Money. [1 page.]

Jan. 1.

Order for payment to the Treasurers-at-war of 2,000*l.* balance due of the 6,000*l.* ordered for victuals in the North. [See 25 Sept. 1650. A 9, p. 328.]

Jan. 3.

2. Order in the Committee for Advance of Money—on an order in Parliament of 20 Dec. 1650, on petition of Katherine, widow of Major John Balston, that 20*s.* a-week be paid her for a year from Haberdashers' Hall, in discharge of the arrears of her late husband—for payment of the money accordingly. [1 page. A 9, p. 341.]

Jan. 7.

On request of the Haberdashers' Company, who are much impaired in their stock and estate, for some rent for their Common Hall, used by the Committee for Advance of Money for their sittings and for their clerks and officers—order that 60*l.* a-year be paid, since the time of their coming thither, and for so long as they shall remain. [A 9, p. 354.]

Jan. 8.

The registrar's report about 250*l.* received of T. Carter's money confirmed, and Willett to give a discharge for the 1,500*l.* received on Sir J. Wolstenholme's $\frac{1}{2}$, and the former orders for payment to him of 250*l.* for Carlisle to be delivered up, unless Willett show cause to the contrary. [A 9, p. 347.]

Jan. 17.

The committee to hear only 4 causes in one day, and those to be affixed on the door 14 days before, that all parties may take notice and attend.

Jan. 22.

Order for payment to Willett, assignee of Col. Fitch, on a Parliament Order of 14 June 1650 [see 20 Sept. 1650] of 250*l.*, which, with 1,250*l.* already paid, is in full of 1,500*l.* paid by Sir J. Wolstenholme as fine for his $\frac{1}{2}$, to be employed by the colonel for repair of Carlisle garrison.

Whereas the commissioners for supply of Carlisle garrison, by their order of 14 June last, paid Willett 250*l.* out of Mr. Carter's money, which by Parliament Order was appropriated for Berwick, and therefore Willett, by Col. Fitch's direction repaid it out of Wolstenholme's fine;—the said order of 14 June is to be cancelled, and the treasurers are to pay the 250*l.* to Tempest Milner for Berwick garrison, according to Parliament Orders of 26 Feb. and 14 June last. [A 9, pp. 377, 378.]

Feb. 8. 5. Return by Sam. Hearne, agent to the Commissioners for co. Northampton, of the delivery of 8 orders of 17 January 1651, for payment of assessments. [$\frac{3}{4}$ sheet.]
- Feb. 11. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Salop. Haberdashers' Hall, London. We have sent you summonses for divers persons in your county to appear before us about their assessments, which we desire your agent to deliver, and to take oath before you when, where, and to whom he delivered those, and also our former summons, which oath must be sent to us, that orders may be issued to levy by sequestration on those who elapse their times. With note of like letters to the Commissioners of cos. Chester and Lincoln. [A 24, p. 99.]
- Feb. 11. Like letter to the County Commissioners for Oxon, to whom also instructions are sent. [A 24, p. 100.]
- Feb. 14. 6. County Commissioners for Cornwall to the Committee for Advance of Money. In reply to yours of 20 January, we sent the orders that were enclosed, but 2 of the parties were not in the county, one is dead, and one certifies payment of his $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{10}$ to the old committee. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.]
- Feb. 14. 7. Certificate sent by the County Commissioners for co. Somerset of delivery of notices of assessments to 16 persons named. [2 pages.]
- Feb. 14. Order that no petition presented be henceforth received by any one of the committee, but delivered to Mr. Molins or the registrar, and numbered for reading when time permits. [A 10, p. 36.]
- 8. Order that those who paid in $\frac{1}{2}$ their fines, but did not pay the other $\frac{1}{2}$ within 3 months, be not allowed the benefit of the votes of Parliament of 17 and 20 March 1649, concerning the exempting from assessment those who pay their composition fines, $\frac{1}{2}$ in 6 weeks, and secure the remainder in 3 months. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.]
- Feb. 19. 9. Thos. Jarvis to ——. Many delinquents have compounded at Haberdashers' Hall on their first particular, and have since compounded on new particulars, either on their own discovery or that of others, on which they have paid no $\frac{1}{10}$, nor been questioned for it. Many compounded on Oxford articles, which freed them if they compounded within 6 months after the surrender, but for these later estates, they did not compound within 6 months. This is likely to bring in more money than the first compositions, on which all the debts were allowed, therefore none will have to be allowed on this second.
- I named this to you before I was dismissed my employment, and now it is on my conscience to deliver it. [1 page.]
- Feb. 27. 10. Return by Rich. Carter, agent to the Commissioners for co. Devon, of delivery of the orders of 17 January 1651 to 24 persons named, for appearance before the Committee for Advance of Money. [$1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.]
- Feb. 28. Order that in all orders of discharge of sequestrations made for the $\frac{1}{10}$, the registrar insert the clause that the county commissioners are to have their allowance of 6d. in the pound, before the sequestration is taken off. [A 10, p. 61.]
- Feb. 11. Notes of cases depending before the Committee for Advance of Money. September 1650 to February 1651. [$3\frac{1}{2}$ pages.]
- March 4. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for co. Devon. Haberdashers' Hall. We lately received a return from your agent, Rich. Carter, of the issuing of orders for appearance of divers persons to pay their $\frac{1}{10}$, 8 of whom (named) are dead, and therefore you must enquire after their heirs and executors, and deliver the summonses to them. We also send 2 other summonses, which we pray you to deliver with speed. [A 24, p. 104.]
- March 7. 12. County Commissioners for Somerset to the Committee for Advance of Money. We send an account of the delivery of the remainder of the summonses, according to your orders. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.] Enclosing,
- 12. i. Note of delivery of summonses to 5 persons named in co. Somerset, to appear 21 February to pay their assessments. [1 page.]
- March 8. 13. County Commissioners for Essex to the Committee for Advance of Money. Chelmsford. We have received your instructions, and will shortly send you affidavits of issuing the summonses for the $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{10}$. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.]

March 12. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Cornwall. We request you to have the enclosed order delivered to Reynold Loggett, and an affidavit made of the delivery. [A 24, p. 105.] Enclosing,
1. *Order in the Committee for Advance of Money that Loggett, who received 100*l.* of Sir Rich. (sic) Courtney, of Trethurfe, co. Cornwall, for his $\frac{1}{20}$, in 1648—long after the order that all delinquents who had compounded should pay in their $\frac{1}{20}$ to the Committee for Advance of Money—pay over the said sum to Treasurer Dawson, or show cause. 7 March 1651. [A 10, p. 95.]*
- March 14. Cirencester. 14. County Commissioners for Gloucestershire to the Committee for Advance of Money. On your instructions for summonses for the $\frac{1}{20}$, we sent our agent, but 2 have no estate here, and one is misdirected; the other has been delivered. [1 page.] Enclosing,
14. 1. Deposition of the delivery of the said summons. [$\frac{2}{3}$ page.]
- March 18. Treasurer Dawson to keep a book wherein to enter every day's receipts, and bring it to the commissioners every morning. [A 10, p. 127.]
- March 19. Ampthill. 15. County Commissioners for Bedfordshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. In yours of 10 Feb., you enclose instructions about the $\frac{2}{20}$, and direct us to summon or sequester some for non-payment. Before proceeding, we must request the addresses of several not given, and further particulars as to others. The cases in question are—

- March 19. Nottingham. 16. County Commissioners for Notts. to the Committee for Advance of Money. In our care for discharge of our trust, and in zeal for the public, we wish to enquire—
1. Whether Sir Thos. Williamson, Bart., of Great Markham, who, in his shrievalty, received 600*l.* or 700*l.* of the ship money charged on the county, and spent it in raising a garrison at Newark for the King against Parliament, is to be made responsible for it, and what course shall be taken?
 2. Whether the executors of Thos. Newton, King's purveyor, should not account for and pay the moneys in his hands for provisions in this county?
 3. Whether gentlemen of large and plentiful estate, who never contributed to Parliament, nor paid their $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{20}$, should not be taxed? 20 names suggested. We beg directions. [1 page.]
- March 25. Knutsford. 17. County Commissioners for Cheshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. We beg information of what some of you told one of us lately in London, that we are to have 6*d.* in the pound salary from those who pay their $\frac{1}{20}$, even if they have already agreed for payment, or else we may levy it on them, as several take advantage of their discharge to deprive us of it. We will serve Parliament faithfully, and we desire you seriously to consider the things disallowed in our accounts, especially our salary for moneys paid by your order, which we hold to be as good as though paid at Goldsmiths' Hall; also 8*l.* 1*s.* 0*d.* charged for one of us coming up,—10 days coming up and down, and a month's stay in London on your order. Such deductions "take up a good deal of our salary, far contrary to what we hoped and expected."
- P.S.—We now return by bill to the Goldsmiths' Hall Treasurer 420*l.*, which makes 1,890*l.* returned in all, and we hope you will allow us a fit salary as treasurers. With marginal notes of reply that the Committee for Advance of Money will ascertain whether 6*d.* in the pound is to be allowed on the $\frac{1}{20}$: that a clause will be inserted for their payment in future; and that the allowance will be referred to the Army Committee's decision. [1 page.]
- March 28. Stening. 18. County Commissioners for Sussex to the Committee for Advance of Money. Our agents have taken affidavits of delivery of your summonses to persons assessed, to pay their $\frac{1}{20}$ on 18 April. We trust they will appear and pay, or produce discharges. [$\frac{2}{3}$ page.]

- Oct. 7. 45. County Commissioners for Devonshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. We send you new discoveries and certificates on appeals, which we could not send earlier, because of the late troubles and dangers by the post, among which is Mr. Putt's charge. We believe, by what was done against the prosecutors and threatened against us, that he is the chief cause of the trouble put on us in this journey. The prosecutors have urged warrants to examine more witnesses and complete their proofs, but his being high sheriff of the county made us as modest therein as we could be, lest he should plead that as an obstruction to his work; also we could not well attend to it, because of our employment in the county militia. We send examinations in several cases of delinquents. [Some are in Tables 23 January and 8 July 1651; of the remainder, being eight, there is no further account.]
We send particulars of the money received, part is to be paid in to the treasury, and the rest will be returned as speedily as possible. The tenants complain much of an unexpected charge of free quarter, contrary to order, and of high rents; they clamour for allowance, or they will be enforced to leave their bargains.

VOL. A LXXXVI.

 March 24. 88. Order that in all cases of delinquency, where the charge or proceedings were before the late or present county commissioners, and not originally before the Commissioners for Compounding or Committee for Advance of Money, the registrars are to receive petitions for county commissioners to certify proceedings; and on return of such certificates, if there have been no judgment or sequestration, orders are to be set down for discharge; if otherwise, the case is to be set down for hearing. [1 page; also A 11, p. 293.]
- March 26. Discharges to be also granted on motion or petition in all cases, on the registrars' certificate that no sequestration has issued. [A 11, p. 287.]
- March 28. 89. List of 23 delinquents whose charges or depositions were sent up by the Commissioners for Sequestrations for co. Devon, as also of 5 received from Mr. Bayley, but subsequently returned to him. [1½ pages.]
- April 6. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Lancashire. On 31 March last, we, as Commissioners for Compounding, sent you orders touching persons engaged in the late war with the King of Scots, directing you to proceed according to instructions. Our registrar says that some of the estates have been seized 3 months, and no appeal made to us, and that several, if not most, or all of the persons still enjoy their estates. We desire you, according to the 5th instruction, to sequester the estates of all whom you returned to us, except such as have orders from us to stay rents in the tenants' hands, or receive them on security. We desire a report of your proceedings, and an account of such as are not yet returned. [A 24, p. 206.]
- April 7. Whereas petitions are presented, and motions made, in cases where there have been former proceedings, which are kept back by the prosecutors, and the last order in the case not produced as directed, and attempts made to keep from our knowledge former proceedings;—no order is now to be granted till the registrars give a certificate that the proceedings therein named (except published depositions) are all that have taken place in the case. For such certificates the registrars are not to demand fees. No petition to be exhibited in future without such certificate. Where there have been no proceedings, the registrars are to certify the same. They are not to give out any order unless the former orders in the case have been taken out. And that none may plead an excuse for not producing the last order in his case, a copy of this resolve is to be fixed on the door, and another to lie before the committee, so that the same may be duly observed. [A 11, p. 324.]
- April 8. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Devon.
 Haberdashers' Hall. You sent us last October charges and depositions against several persons, which were delivered to our registrar. Some you have seized and secured, and others we have ordered to be seized and secured. Send word whether any of them were actually sequestered before 1 December 1651. Noted, that no return was made, as it had been made to the Commissioners for Compounding. [A 25, p. 2.]
- April 8. 90. "A particular of all estates under sequestration within the county of Southampton, and how the same estates are let, from Michaelmas 1651," arranged in the division of the county—106 estates—total rental 2,615*l.* 2*s.* 2*d.* Signed by the commissioners, Edw. Muspratt, Jo. Champion, and Edw. Hooker 20 March 1652. Exhibited 8 April 1652. With a good index. [Narrow folio book, 16 pages, in parchment cover, much damaged.]
- April 9. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for co. Salop. In yours of 29 March, you say that you are proceeding against persons engaged in the late war with the King of Scots. You are to take and secure the estates of those against whom you have proof, to send up the depositions, and to be very diligent in finding out all who were active therein, and proceed according to instructions. [A 25, p. 3.]
- April 9. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Haberdashers' Worcester-shire. We received yours of 29 October, with depositions against Hall. those who had engaged in the late war with the King of Scots, some of whose estates we doubt not you have seized and secured. You are, according to your 5th instruction, to sequester all whose estates have been seized 3 months, unless you have orders for staying the rents in the tenants' hands, or receiving them on security. Also to the effect of the latter part of the preceding letter. [A 25, p. 1.]

 April 13. Haberdashers' Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Cheshire. Having received, from several counties into which Charles Stuart and his army entered last August, returns of persons who were active and in arms for him, and depositions thereon, we wish you to make like enquiries, and take like proceedings in your county, and send us the depositions speedily. With note of like letters to the Commissioners of cos. Hereford, Cumberland, Westmoreland, and Gloucester. [A 25, p. 4.]
- April 13. 91. Like letter to the County Commissioners for Northumberland. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page, draft.]
- April 17. Worcester College. 92. County Commissioners for Worcestershire to the Committee for Advance of Money. On your order of 19 March, we send you a list of all the persons sequestered in the county since 1 April 1643, and not discharged. We will observe your directions of 9 and 13 April. We have not, nor shall we suspend or discharge any on the Act of Pardon without your order. Particulars of cases. We want an answer to our late letter about Major Blackwell's taking distress of tenants to sequestered estates for 14 or 15 years' arrears of chief rents, and also to the particular of the sheriffs taking distress for the debts of proprietors. [2 pages.]
- April 20. Northwich. 93. County Commissioners for Cheshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. In answer to yours of 13 April last, we cannot hear of any in this county who appeared for Charles Stuart, son of the late King, except John Sayer [see Tables]. Berchenhead, of Northwich, was discharged from sequestration as not worth 200*l.*; his estate is only 3*l.* or 4*l.* a year, and his family live partly on charity. He was bailiff to the Earl of Derby, and on Charles Stuart's coming to Northwich, proclaimed him King, went with the earl to Lancashire, escaped in the rout at Wigan, and is now living in or near London. Sonne of Nantwich gave money to Charles Stuart, to preserve the town from plunder; we will inquire into this. Most of this county declared for Parliament, and 4 regiments of foot, and one large troop of horse, raised at the county's charge, marched to Worcester, and were at the battle. The old delinquents that had compounded aided the said troops, and kept aloof from Charles Stuart. Direct us if any discovery is made to you, not known to us. [1 page.]
- May 4. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Lancashire. We received yours of 9 December, with depositions against those who had taken part with Charles Stuart; but contrary to our directions, they were taken in a promiscuous way, intermixing divers delinquents in one deposition, and sometimes only examining one witness. We desire you to take further examinations, keeping the persons separate, or publication cannot well be made in one case without naming the rest, and send us up your proofs speedily. With note of like letter for the Commissioners of co. Worcester. [A 25, p. 5.]
- May 5. Penrith. 94. County Commissioners for Cumberland to the Committee for Advance of Money. We send a list of those who were in arms against Parliament in the three wars, and have not compounded nor appeared in the county since, and their estates have lain under sequestration. The following compounded for the second war, viz., Jehn Senhouse of Seascale [see Cases], Jos. Patrickson of the How, and Wm. Patrickson of Weddicar, but were in arms in the third war, and have not appeared in the county since. Their estates, real and personal, are secured. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.] Annewing,
- 94. i. List above referred to, viz., Sir Tim. Featherstonehaugh, Kirkoswald; Sir Phit. Musgrave, Bart., Eadnell; Lancelot Walker, Torpenhow; Rob. Whitfield, Randell Holme. [$\frac{1}{2}$ page.]
- May 7. 95. List of 11 cases on which discharges were granted for delinquents, and of 14 more to be heard on 7 May. [1 page.]
- May 7. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Dorset. Having sent you orders for levying sums on persons assessed, we want to know what money you received before 1 December last, and what goods, cattle, or rent you have seized; you are to return to Haberdashers' Hall, not to Goldsmiths' Hall, the moneys so received, and the names of those on whom it was levied. We have much money charged on our receipt which requires present payment. With note of like letters to the Commissioners for cos. Dorset, Lincoln, York, Chester, and Devon. [A 25, p. 6.]

- 96. County Commissioners for Worcestershire to the Committee for Advance of Money. Rich. Thatcher discovered in 1650 an estate of Thos. Smith, Papist, of Bromsgrove, worth 11l. 18s. a year, and the rent has been paid in ever since; also in 1651 the estate of Wm. Nash, Papist, of Hanbury, worth 17l., which has been since paid in to the State. [1 page.]

- 97. County Commissioners for Yorkshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. We send you our accounts for the $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{20}$. We paid in more than we received, as Mr. Rymer will tell you at his coming. [$\frac{1}{2}$ page.] Enclosing,
- 97. i. Note by Ralph Rymer of receipts for assessments, 748l. 6s., and repayments, 276l. 9s. 10d., leaving a balance of 471l. 16s. 2d. Also of 500l. and 100l. already paid in. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.]

- 98. County Commissioners for Cheshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. You ask us to certify our receipts on assessments for the $\frac{1}{20}$ before 1 December last. We levied no money on assessments before then, as all the persons whom you ordered us to sequester paid in their moneys at Haberdashers' Hall. The Act [of Pardon] has put a stop to all orders received since. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.]

- 100. E. Wall to Dallison. When yours of the 7th came, the commissioners had adjourned, and were on business about their accounts and keeping courts on sequestered estates, but I gave it to Mr. Cunliffe. He fears that if the witnesses are re-examined, many will deny what they affirmed, this being often done in composition cases, and he wants to know whether it is needful in all cases, or only in those where only one witness was examined. [1 page.]
- May 18.
- M. Dallison to E. Wall, clerk to the County Commissioners for Lancashire. In answer to yours of the 9th, I do not think that by the letter of the Committee for Advance of Money of the 4th, they wished you to re-examine witnesses already examined, but to take distinct, and not promiscuous depositions. [A 25, p. 7.]

- 101. County Commissioners for Westmoreland to the Committee for Advance of Money. By your order of 13 April, we have examined those who were in arms with Charles Stuart in the last engagement, and sent the examinations, and seized their estates. We will try to find out more.
- We intend to send up all the Court rolls, and an account of the moneys received by way of fines. We are in hand with the old accounts, but the work is difficult and takes much time. [1 page.]
- June 2.
- Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Cornwall. You are not henceforth to give certificates for money paid on the propositions, or for $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{20}$, on pretence of the originals being mislaid or lost, until you have a certificate from our registrar that the party has not used his acquittance at Haberdashers' Hall by having the money deducted from his $\frac{1}{20}$ paid formerly. In these cases we have taken the acquittances; and if they have new certificates, they may double the money, and thus raise a present profit on what has been already allowed in part of their assessments. [A 25, p. 11.]
- June 11.
- 102. All cases of delinquency in the former and latter wars to be heard before this committee as Committee for Advance of Money, and the registrar to them as Commissioners for Compounding to transfer the depositions and papers to the registrar of the Committee for Advance of Money. - 103. County Commissioners for Devon to the Committee for Advance of Money. On your order of 7 May, we certify that all your orders for summonses, seizures, and sequestrations for the $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{20}$ have been issued from time to time, but we have only had the enclosed return. [$\frac{1}{2}$ page.] Enclosing,
- 103. i. Returns on a warrant of 29 Jan. 1651 for raising sums on the estates of 5 persons named. [1 page.]
- June 16.
- 104. In cases of titles and of debts discovered owing to delinquents or recusants, copies of the depositions are not to be given to either party until both certify that they have examined all their witnesses, unless special order is given where there is not effectual prosecution. -
- June 23. The Solicitor for the State to see that all orders for the benefit of the State be drawn up by the registrars, and sent to the commissioners of the several counties for execution.
The registrar and treasurer to have henceforth a special order for granting the Public Faith for moneys paid on the $\frac{1}{20}$, before they grant certificates in such cases. [A 12, p. 27.]
- June 28.
York. 106. Ralph Rymer to Jos. Beverley, agent to the Committee for Advance of Money for co. York; to be left with M. Dallison. I send an answer to yours about the 500*l.* I have directed payment of 200*l.* more, and if more is due on my books, I will pay it. Baylis has sent an answer to our queries about the papers left with him, but those in Mr. Lecch's charge are not sent, nor the contracts which are confirmed, only an order naming that they are confirmed. [1 page.] Enclosing,
- 106. i. *Walter Rasby to Ralph Rymer. You have written me to pay the 500*l.* to Haberdashers' Hall, but my master ordered me to pay it to Goldsmiths' Hall. Let me have a line about it. London, 26 June. With Rymer's reply requesting him to pay it to Mr. Dawson at Haberdashers' Hall, and take his receipt. 29 June, York. [1 page.]*
- June 30. 107. Mr. Dawson to perfect his accounts with the auditor in 10 days, and Herring and Waring henceforth to be treasurers to the Committee for Advance of Money, and keep separate accounts for them. [$\frac{2}{3}$ page.]
- June 30. 108. Whereas by Act of Parliament of 4 Feb. 1652, all titles of honour granted by the late King since 4 Jan. 1642 are made void, and are to be brought into the Court of Chancery by their owners, under a penalty; and whereas Sir Rob. Thorold states that, in a trunk seized by the late Committee for Advance of Money, as belonging to Rob. Squibb, there is a patent for a baronetcy conferred on him at Oxford, 14 June 1644, which he desires to have, that he may deliver it up accordingly;—order that the treasurer deliver over the said patent to the Commissioners of the Great Seal. [1 page, A 12, p. 53.]
- July 9. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners of Lancashire. On reading your depositions in the case of Hen. Houghton, we find many things in which we are not satisfied, and therefore cannot proceed to judgment, viz., whether the witnesses were examined on interrogatories, or answered vidâ voce to questions propounded by you; whether they brought their depositions ready drawn and subscribed, which were accepted by you. Some of the depositions in this and other cases are taken before Mr. Sawrey and Fell, who are not authorised commissioners. Were these acknowledged by the deponents before you as commissioners? Many persons examined swore to the delinquency of many in a promiscuous and disorderly way, so we are sending for 4 to be examined by our examiner. [A 25, p. 17. See Henry Houghton, in Cases.]
- July 30. 109. County Commissioners for Worcestershire to the Committee for Advance of Money. Request for directions in particular cases. The cattle of several of the tenants to whom we have leased sequestered estates have been driven away by the sheriff, for the debts of the proprietors of the land, and the tenants expect defalcation of their rents. We send a list of sequestered manors of which the courts are still to be kept. [2 pages.] Enclosing,
- 109. i. List of 8 sequestered manors in the county, with the names of the owners. [$\frac{2}{3}$ page.]
- Aug. 6. 110. Whereas the committee ordered all moneys coming into Haberdashers' Hall to be paid to the treasurers at Goldsmiths' Hall, and whereas several sums are charged by Parliament Order on Haberdashers' Hall, and the persons to whom they are due beg orders for payment, the Goldsmiths' Hall Treasurers are to pay the several sums which Treasurer Dawson was formerly ordered to pay, the orders being first attested by the auditor. Aug. 6. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Haberdashers' Cheshire. We send an order of the Commissioners of Indemnity on your Hall. letter of 14 July last. It is unusual for complaints to come to them under your hands; it should be done by petitions of the complainers, which you should transmit to the committee before the day of appearance. Your letter now sent may be used as a certificate, and the complainers should appear at their first sitting, 31 Aug. [A 25, p. 23.]
- Aug. 7. 111. Account of paper, pens, and ink delivered to Mr. Vafe, for Mr. Dallison, for the use of the committee at Haberdashers' Hall. [$\frac{1}{4}$ pages.]
- Aug. 13. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Worcestershire. We hear of erasures in some of your books and orders about Edm.
Broad, against whom examinations were taken, and judgment of delinquency given by the late Committee for Advance of Money; you are to examine and certify; also to examine witnesses against Wm. Pardoe, to discover by whom the erasure was made, and whether it be a matter of bribery. [A 25, p. 25.]
- Aug. 13. 112. E. Wall, clerk to the County Commissioners for Lancashire, to Preston. Dallison. Particulars of cases:—I find duplicates of orders for sequestrations or discharges are expected. I sent up those since Oct. 1645, when I was first employed as clerk to the late county commissioners, and they were delivered to Aud. Sherwin, also the books of Mr. Okey, late auditor here.
I have been at much charge in transcribing the duplicates, and my salary being small, I hope this will be considered in my pay or allowance. [$\frac{3}{4}$ page.]
- Aug. 30. 113. Geo. Farrington to Dallison. The trustees [for plundered ministers?]
Westminster. are very anxious to procure orders to the sub-commissioners, as the desires are just, and the necessities of the ministers very urgent. The sub-commissioners allege the 35th instruction which inhibits their paying without orders. [1 page.]
- Sept. 9. Whereas before 30 June last, several orders were issued by the Committee for Advance of Money to Rich. Waring and Mich. Herring, treasurers of Goldsmiths' Hall, for payment of $\frac{1}{2}$ of moneys paid in for compositions to the discoverers of the estates, according to the Parliamentary Order of 8 Aug. 1650, allowing $\frac{1}{2}$ to discoverers, and also other payments to be made from composition moneys;—order that these stand as entered, but that distinct accounts be kept henceforth for the receipts and payments for the Committee for Advance of Money, since 30 June 1652, when they were ordered to be treasurers in Dawson's stead. [A 12, p. 149.]
- Sept. 10. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Lancashire. We find that the depositions sent up against persons for acting against Parliament, when the Earl of Derby and his forces were in your county, were taken by the Militia Commissioners or others, and not by you. We desire you to send for the witnesses, take their acknowledgments of their depositions, and certify us. [A 25, p. 26.]
- Sept. 24. 114. Dawson to pay to Waring and Herring, within 14 days, all moneys in his hands, and due on his account as treasurer. [$\frac{1}{2}$ page; also A 12, p. 151.]
- Sept. 24. Committee for Advance of Money to the Commissioners of cos. Worcester and Lancaster. You have returned several delinquents who are not prosecuting their appeals to us, but you do not give their qualities or addresses;
we think some are persons of small estates, but we desire further particulars, and you are to have their estates in your own or any other county seized. Repeated 23 Oct. [A 25, pp. 29, 32.]
- Sept. 28. 115. Committee for Advance of Money to Chas. Pym. The County Commissioners for Middlesex have returned a list from the treasurer and agent Haberdashers' of the late County Committee for Westminster, of persons who owe money for Hall. delinquents' goods purchased of them, and you are returned as owing 54*l.* 10*s.*
for goods of the Earl of Derby. We spoke to you of it before, when you said you knew nothing of it, but now we have particulars of the goods, and therefore, in discharge of our public duty, we request you to pay the money forthwith, or show cause for non-payment. [1 page.]

Sept. 29. Order on request of the master and wardens of Haberdashers' Hall, for payment to them from Goldsmiths' Hall Treasury, of the arrears of 60*l.* a-year ordered them 7 Jan. 1651, for rent of their hall, and for its payment quarterly in future. [A 12, p. 166.]
- Sept. 116. List of 4 persons adjudged delinquents by the Committee for Advance of Money for acts committed since 30 Jan. 1649. [$\frac{1}{2}$ page.]
- Oct. 6. The committee, being sensible of the great pains of their registrars in alphabetizing and methodizing their books and papers, whereby they produce them readily when needed, to the great advantage of the State, and they having reported their trouble and time spent in searches, and requesting a certain fee for their searches;—order that they be allowed 4*d.* for each search made last year, and other years to come. [A 12, p. 175.]
- Oct. 26.
Cardigan. 117. County commissioners to the Committee for Advance of Money. In reply to yours of 19 March, 12 August, and 15 and 16 September 1652, with a printed list of convicted recusants, we cannot learn of any Popish recusants in this or any other county. We have directed warrants to the treasurers, collectors, sequestrators, and all others who ought to give in accounts, to appear before us. Particulars of cases. We have 160*l.* in hand, and wish the Treasurers-at-war would order the payment of it, on their first occasion for disbursement of money. [$1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.] Enclosing,

- Oct. 28. 118, 119. Whereas on 13 May 1651, Treasurer Dawson was ordered to pay by Council of State warrant 10,000*l.* for supply of stores, the Goldsmiths' Hall Treasurers are ordered to pay 500*l.* in part of the said 10,000*l.*, Dawson being dismissed. [2 copies, 1 page each; one with certificate by Aud. Sherwin, the other receipted by Maj. Gen. Harrison; also A 12, p. 180.]
- Nov. 3. Mary, widow of Capt. Rob. Pattison, of Brockdish, co. Norfolk, to have the rest of the 200*l.* ordered her by Parliament, 13 April 1652, paid from Goldsmiths' Hall, the Haberdashers' Hall treasury being dissolved. [A 12, p. 192.]
- Nov. 10. As many motions are made, and petitions prepared, in which part of the previous proceedings in the case, though copies have been obtained from the registrars, are kept back, whereby the committee lose time, and have to search the proceedings hastily, and thus some may overslip;—order that in future no order shall issue for suspension of sequestration or seizure, till the registrar's certificate is produced, with copies of all proceedings. The registrars are, in their certificates, to mention such proceedings. This order to be posted on the doors and in the rooms, that solicitors and all others concerned may take notice of it. [A 12, p. 206.]
- Nov. 10.
Tregaron. 120. County Commissioners for Cardiganshire to the Committee for Advance of Money. We have called before us Thos. Evans, registrar to the late sub-committee of accounts in this county, but he refused either to be examined about his papers and acquittances, or to deliver them up. Thereupon we committed him to Oliver Lloyd, mayor of Tregaron, and one of the coroners of this county, requiring that he should be forthcoming when called for. Next morning we sent for him, but Lloyd refused to bring him before us, and used opprobrious words in affront to our authority; so we committed him, and he remains in restraint till we hear from you.
- Hearing that Thomas Lloyd Bishop proclaimed at Caron, a market town, that some of us were traitors and delinquents, and were incapable of our place, we called him before us, and he said he meant David Hughes, one of the commissioners. For this affront, we committed him to the high constable, to be brought to the sheriff's gaol, but he would not obey our authority. We leave it to you to maintain our power. Signed by Rees Evans and David Hughes. [1 page.]

122. County Commissioners for Lancashire to the Committee for Advance of Money. On your order of 10 September last, we summoned several witnesses to acknowledge their depositions taken before the Militia Commissioners, have re-examined 2, but 3 have not appeared; one, Tim. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Worcestershire. Complain of having received no reply to their letters of 24 September and 23 October about delinquents and their estates, which they repeat, and beg a speedy return. [A 25, p. 45.]

Dec. 14.

Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners for Worcestershire. We have yours with the list of estates of persons in your county secured for delinquency, and you ask the names of any more persons against whom witnesses have been examined. In yours of 29 October 1651, we find only one witness was examined against divers persons in the enclosed list, and we expected you would have taken further proofs long ere this, many being persons of note, who must have been observed if in arms with the King of Scots at Worcester fight. We beg you forthwith to make further inquiry, and transmit the depositions to us as Committee for Advance of Money. Annexing,

Whereas we have several orders from the Committee for relief on articles of War to certify what proceedings are before us, which we directed our registrars to certify; considering the weight of such certificates, for a more regular proceeding therein, we order our registrar and auditor to make certificates of all material proceedings in their custody, and deliver them to Reading or Brereton, to state in a report to be sent to the Court of Articles. [A 12, p. 289.]

Dec. 24.

Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners of Worcestershire. In yours of 8 October 1651, with a list of persons whose estates you had seized for adhering to the King of Scots at Worcester, you said you were finding out proofs. Return speedily those already taken, and where you have not sufficient proof, be diligent in examining further witnesses; and to prevent the prejudice happening by delay, send us speedy returns, for the benefit of the State, whose interest we hope you are not backward to promote. Annexing,

4. W. Westrow, to the Commissioners for Indemnity [Committee for Advance of Money]. You have summoned Messrs. Deeds, Weller, Greenland, and Curtis, of Hythe, before you as guilty of delinquency, and punishable for being in office contrary to the Act. Being a burgess of this town, these persons have been much under my observation; they have constantly conformed to Parliamentary authority, and some have shown much affection to Parliament's cause. At the rising in Kent, when many honest men were entangled by the specious pretence of a petition, they and the rest of the town were acquitted by the County Committee, on trial of some of them who were then principal governors of the town. They had not formal [dis]charges, because it was not supposed they would be again questioned. I think this to be a malicious information, and I hope they may be speedily dismissed, or else allowed to examine their witnesses in the country, to save them trouble and charge. [1 page.]

We have willingly complied with the commands of Parliament, advanced 6,000 l. from money entrusted to us for orphans and the poor, sold the plate given by deceased brethren, and taken up loans on interest which we cannot pay. Yet an Ordinance has passed for our sequestration because we cannot advance 2,500 l. towards the 50,000 l. lately required. The result of this will be that the wills of the dead will be unperformed; the poor unrelieved; moneys borrowed unpaid; the stock of orphans and others wasted; and the City of London deprived of a member that for 100 years has borne share in all public charges. We beg that, having done what we could, our company may not be suddenly dissolved or ruined, and we disabled for the future, not having at present enough to pay the interest of money furnished for Parliament's use. | 88 8 |

| | 16 April 1643. Gilb. Morewood to John Mould. I find by yours how hardly I am proceeded against in London; if they knew my condition they would pity me. I am still a prisoner; the Colonel knows what money I have lent Parliament, and would protect me if I would lend him a good sum. They fetch away by cart and horse all the provisions I have about me. To-day, they broke open my stable door and took 5 of my best horses. | 88 16 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

19 Dec. 1642.

I am engaged to the Colonel not to stir out of my house. If I stir, all is lost; if I stay, and the wars continue, nothing can be saved.

Some gentlemen about me have lost all their tenants, who are ordered to pay the rent to his Majesty's use, and they are proclaimed traitors.

If ever I see London, I promise to give the committee all satisfaction.

- | | | | | |
|---|----|------|-------|--|
| Note that the Spanish merchants, pretenders to the cochineal, silver, ginger, hides, and other goods brought in the ship Clare into Southampton, appeared. | 1 | 52 | | |
| | 88 | 17 | | |
| 21 Dec. Note that the Spanish ambassador's solicitor came to the committee, and averred that the said goods were stolen from St. Domingo, and he would prove that the pretenders thereto were not the true proprietors. | 1 | 52 | | |
| | 88 | 18 | | |
| 22 Dec. Order in the House of Commons, on report from the Committee for Advance of Money, that the cochineal deposited in Sir John Nulls' hands be forthwith sold, and a declaration of the true state of the business set forth. That the pretenders to the cochineal and other goods be left to their trial-at-law. That the produce of the cochineal and other goods, and of the silver coined, be secured by Public Faith. That the Committee for Advance of Money order the sale of the cochineal and other goods at Southampton or elsewhere. [Printed, Commons' Journals, Vol. II., p. 899.] | 1 | 53 | | |
| | 88 | 19 | | |
| 27 Dec. Order in the House of Commons that publication be made, by bills on the Royal Exchange, for sale of the cochineal on Dec. 29, at 3 p.m., at Haberdashers' Hall, to be sold by the candle, and Sir John Nulls to allow it to be viewed. With note of the publication and the form of the bill. [Commons' Journals, Vol. II., p. 903.] | 1 | 60-1 | | |
| | 88 | 20 | | |
| 29 Dec. Order to Sir John Nulls to permit John Delanoy to view the cochineal. | 1 | 52 | | |
| | 88 | 21 | | |
| 29 Dec. Note that divers persons appeared with intent to view the cochineal, but were dismissed, as the House had taken the business into further examination, and so they must wait further publication. | 1 | 61 | | |
| 29 Dec. Petition of several merchants of London, owners of the ship Clare, lately arrived at Southampton from the West Indies, to the House of Commons. Hearing of an order made by you 28 Dec. to the Committee for Advance of Money, to raise 10,000 l . from the cochineal now in your possession;—also noting the great inconveniences that will ensue if the cochineal and other goods are disposed of, according to an order of 22 Dec., before the property therein has been ascertained by law, we having 10,000 l . interest in the goods, besides freight and charges, beg to propound— | 88 | 22 | | |
| 1. That we will speedily raise 10,000 l . more, in addition to the 30,000 l . brought home in the ship, and already used by Parliament, if we may have power to deliver the goods to the true owners. | | | | |

19 Dec. 1642.

2. We will give security for their delivery to the proprietors, they paying the freight.

3. We will give security to answer all pretenders to property in the goods, provided we be freed from national quarrels or demands, of which we should be free had we not been dispossessed of our goods, and exposed to this danger by power of Parliament.

4. We will discharge all duties, mariners' wages, &c., till the proprietors can sell their goods, and oblige them to answer by law all demands of the Spanish ambassador concerning the premises.

We beg consideration, to prevent further mischief to English merchants trading to Spain.

5 Jan. 1643.

You beg the loan of 1,100*l.* whereon we summoned the company, but considering the ill-consequences that would follow in future, we must beg to be excused. The unhappy differences in the kingdom have enforced many assessments, and some of us have received tickets of assessment, and this loan would be considered a tax, and made a precedent. We beg you not to be displeased with us, but we fear inconvenience to the company, and offence to the State of the Low Countries, our superiors.

20 Jan. 1643.

4 March 1645. Reuben Bourne to Edw. Nevell. I am involved in disgrace by your brother Thos. Nevell. I hear nothing from him, and have nothing to satisfy the creditors to whom he has miserably engaged me, and then left me to ruin. I have paid some interest for him, but more is due, and I can neither pay it nor the principal, so I must die in prison for the most unthankful man in the world, a monster of ingratitude, who has deprived me of all my means, and left me to pay his debts. Could he not compound for these bonds whersin I am bound, and not leave me totally to ruin and misery?

88 55

5 March. Reuben Bourne to Mr. Dallison. Mr. Nevell having agreed with Parliament, and being freed out of prison to recover the rents due to him in Cheshire, finds his lands there sequestered by the county commissioners, and his goods and rents carried away without order, before the sequestration was granted, so that he can neither pay Parliament nor his creditors, of whom I am the chief. I have not only trusted him with money, but engaged myself for him for 500*l.* or 600*l.*, which I cannot pay, so that unless he can have his sequestration taken off, and call those to account who wronged him, he had better have remained in prison. If you can help him, you will much oblige your old friend.

88 56

5 May 1645. Order that Nevell's assessment of 300*l.* be taken off for 50*l.* paid and 31*l.* made by his goods, as he has had great losses, and that the County Commissioners for Cheshire, who have sequestered his estate, discharge the sequestration.

23 March 1654. Receipt by Nevell of a Public Faith certificate for the 50*l.* paid in for his $\frac{1}{20}$.

31 Oct. 1645. Order that on his making up the sum, a certificate thereof be given to the Committee for Examinations, that he may be discharged his imprisonment at Norwich, and all sequestration on his estate for non-payment of his $\frac{1}{20}$.

23 Jan. 1643.

ROGER WARFELD, Minister of Bennet Finkes.

Report by the Churchwardens to the Committee for Advance of Money. On Tuesday, 14 Jan., we delivered him an Ordinance, which he read, but made no exhortation. We then gave him another, with your order to read it, and exhort the congregation thereon. He wished to leave out the first part, which concerned the King, but at length said, "Well, I will read it, for it is their words and not mine;" and he did so, but made no exhortation. Endorsed—"Answers of parishes whose minister have not read the declaration, 7 Jan., or not exhorted thereon."

9 Jan., 1646. Assessed at 100*l.* - - - - -

June 1646. Warfeld allowed a month to take his affidavit before a Justice of Peace or Master in Chancery of his estate, and if he is not worth 100*l.*, debts paid, his assessment to be discharged.

29 June. He producing an affidavit to that effect, his assessment taken off, and the sequestration discharged.

DEF. 88 79, 80 Dec. 1644. Reasons assigned by Gore against his sequestration, with replies thereto.

1. He sailed for Dantzic, where he now resides with his family, by licence, in Aug. 1643.—Answer. He had no such licence.

2. He left the kingdom because the King sequestered his estate [near Abingdon] in co. Oxford, value 450*l.* a year, and cut down his woods, which, with arrears of rents, came to 2,500*l.*—Answer. This was not done before his going beyond seas.

3. He was compelled to go over to secure the rest of his estate which was in the Eastland, and the Sound was blocked up by the King of Denmark.—Answer. He had a large estate in London in moneys and debts, and great sums have been delivered by his agents, by exchange.

4. Before he went, he agreed for his $\frac{1}{20}$ and his weekly assessments, amounting to 1,000 marks, and then to show his affection to Parliament, lent 100*l.* on Public Faith. The 50 subsidies being rated six weeks after he left, he gave order for payment, and the bill of exchange is daily expected.—Answer. His assessments were 1,000*l.*, being rather under his neighbours', and he only paid 400*l.*

5. When he left, he took away 1,500*l.* in cloth and money, which the King of Denmark seized, and has had many losses in the Eastland, yet he will pay all assessments according to his ability, and will return to England when he can get in his estate in those parts.—Answer. It is reported he got off without loss, saying he was one of the King of Denmark's friends; before the troubles, most of his estate was in England. With notes relative to the persons who have property of his in hand.

We contracted 4 years ago with Gosse for goods named in a schedule then produced at Guildhall, but on sight thereof, found them differing from the schedule. We have already paid more than their value, yet have been often called on for the remainder of the money agreed on. We beg freedom from further claim, or reference of the case to some indifferent person. | 88 | 98 |
| | 17 March. The difference between the petitioners and Gosse referred to Dallison and Cox, to examine and report. | 5 | 407 |
| | 1648? Information by John Warren.—1. That John Fletcher, Gosse's ally, and others, who are the main appraisers of the goods sold, combine before they are advertised for sale, that one of them shall be the buyer, and arrange how the goods shall be divided amongst them. | 88 | 99 |
| | 2. The goods are much undervalued, because they intend to buy them, and they are discontented if others prevent them in bidding at the candle. | | |
| | 3. Gosse does not allow inspectors to have a full sight of the goods, wishing Fletcher to have the full benefit. | | |
| | 4. He delays or refuses to sell goods when buyers are waiting, unless Fletcher is present. | | |
| | 5. Fletcher stands so near the candle that it goes out at the casting up of his hand, or the wind of his mouth at his last bidding, when others would have bidden more. | | |

20 Feb. 1643.

6. Fletcher boasts that he has helped his kindred to extraordinary bargains.

7. Goods were sold in one parcel to George Stoddart for 4,000*l.*, which would have brought double the money if properly divided.

By this unjust dealing, Parliament and State are abused, the men from whom the goods are distrained are discontented, and malignants rail against authority.

I know many untruths have been told to some M.Ps. | 88 162 |
| | I will do my best to get money for the army, but I dare not propose a new subscription, as the people are so averse; I could do more if you sent me an order to assess the malignants and Papists in Essex, as you did in London. I have sequestered some of Sir Geo. Whitmore's rents. | |
| | May 1643. Committee for Advance of Money to Walter Long. We do not mean to liberate any man that is ill-affected, but we could not deny Monger the justice to certify what he paid here; we leave him to his proper place, the prison, and to your discretion. We will send you an order about the recusants and ill-affected. | 88 163 |

- 5 Sept. 1651. Order that the said money be paid to him on security. Also that the word stock be added to the order about the Marmaduke, and that the owners be examined as to the value of the stock, in 1643. 17 20

- 4 Feb. 1652. Keate, Widow Ewen, Nich. Rensford, and other owners of the Marmaduke, petition that the ship being taken in October 1650 by Prince Rupert, about Leghorn, 9 months after, Sir J. Harrington obtained a Parliamentary Order for payment of 650*l.* from Rawdon's estate, and also an order for sending petitioners' bond to the Sequestration Committee, who the day after sent them a warrant to pay the money; to avoid which illegal proceeding, they addressed the Committee for Advance of Money. On the choice being given the owners, whether to be responsible for the ship's earnings since she was sequestered in 1643, or for the value of the ship in 1643, they chose the latter, provided she might be impartially valued, and 200*l.* allowed for demurrage in the Downs. But since that time, shipping has sunk in value almost one-half. They therefore beg mitigation of the sum of 300*l.* imposed on them, and leave to petition the Navy Committee for payment, out of the 300*l.* owing them by the State for the ship's service, of the fine imposed on them, or for its defalcation from the said sum. 88 211
- 4 Feb. Order that Keate bring in a list of the part owners who will pay their proportion of the ship's value, and then the committee will declare what they will abate of the 300*l.* Carey to return the books left with him about the ship. 11 174
88 212
- LIST 88 213 5 May 1652. The owners beg discharge on the Act of Pardon. By the arrest of the ship for the delinquent's part, they lost almost the value of that part before they could get her released, and the money due to the delinquent was not sequestered 1 Dec. 1651. 88 214

| | July 1644? Alice Jennings to Mr. Stroud. Before my going into the country, I sent you the 40 l. demanded for my assessment, and told them I had no estate, and hoped they would have been satisfied; but as I hear from them again, I fear they do not know the truth. My husband made his son executor, and left above 3,000 l. debts, to which his goods are liable, and left me no interest but what the law gives. Most of our estate is in the West country, where we receive no rents. Our lands in Hertfordshire—my husband's mother-in-law, Lady Jennings, of the Strand, has 400 l. a year out of; I have 12 children beside my eldest son; and we are all to have shares out of the estate. If I had the money I would willingly pay all that is demanded. | 90 26 |

| 9 Jan. 1644. | William, Lord Say and Seale, to Wm. Stroude. Let the committee know that for the 200 l. of the 1,000 l. mentioned in the draft of an Ordinance which Sir Rob. 31 July 1643.

12 March 1651. The Gwynns petition that they paid the rent agreed on to the Earl of Worcester, then discovered the rent to the county commissioners, and paid them the arrears. Then the Committee for Irish Affairs, who had the disposal of the Earl of Worcester's estate, claimed it; the Committee for Compounding also claimed it, and in the midst of these orders, Mr. Clarke brought them a summons to come up and pay it to the Committee for Advance of Money, and appearance was made, but there was not leisure to hear them.

Soon after, Rowland Gwynn was again summoned, and though very aged and infirm, came up 160 miles with his papers, and stayed 4 or 5 weeks at great charge; but though he much pressed for it, he could not obtain a hearing. No sooner had he returned than the county commissioners sequestered all his rents, allowing him to be tenant of his estate, and now Clarke prosecutes them with fresh orders to sequester their whole estate, and to take needless journeys to attend the committee, on pretence of 1,500*l.* concealed in their hands. Beg that the case may be referred to the county commissioners, and that petitioners may not be prosecuted in so many places on the same matter; they also beg stay of proceedings meantime.

9 April 1651. Committee for Advance of Money to the Commissioners for cos. Pembroke, Carmarthen, and Cardigan. 24 113-4
91 85-87

You say that you sequestered the rents of the lands in question, engaged for the Gwynns' debt to the Earl of Worcester. They say they discovered the rent to the county commissioners, and paid in arrears. We beg you to call them before you, to examine their deeds and acquittances, and certify the time of sequestration, and the receipts from the lands, when Aud. Sherwin will peruse your accounts.

LET. 91 89 22 May 1651. Clarke begs that as the county commissioners have made no return in the Gwynns' case, the order of 21 Feb. may be executed. 91 88 levying the debt due to the Earl of Worcester on the estate of the Gwynns, and note how the State has been prejudiced by your retarding the business. Mr. Clarke will bring you this order and return your proceedings therein.

8 Oct. 1651. Copy by Gwynn of his receipts for moneys paid on account of the said debt. 91 95

Nov. 1651? Petition of John Clarke, that as Rowland Gwynn, when summoned to appear to pay the arrears of rent, and to become tenant to the Committee for Advance of Money in future, alleges that he has paid the arrears, and will obey orders as to the accruing rents, having allowance for taxes, Mr. Cox may examine his acquittances for arrears, and that from the rent to be paid, petitioner may have the arrears due to him by the State, according to former orders. 91 96

| LET. 91 105 | 2 June 1652. Rowland Gwynn being dead, Wm. Gwynn, his | 91 | 108 |
| LET. 91 106 | son and heir, begs discharge of sequestration, or leave to enjoy | | 109 |
| DEP. 91 107 | his estate till the case is heard. Only joined in the sale of the | | |
| | land in 1639 to satisfy the late Earl of Worcester, and had | | |
| | nothing to do with the alleged debt, yet his estate was seques- | | |
| | tered, as well as his father's. Does not consider himself liable | | |
| | for his father's debts, and has never been heard in his defence. | | |
| LET 91 112 | 2 June. Order that as the redemise of the lands in Aug. | 11 | 427 |
| DEP. 91 113 | 1648 was in the names of both father and son, the arrears of | 91 | 110 |
| | the rents be paid into the Treasury, and then further order | | 111 |
| | will be given. | | |
| | 10 Nov. 1652. Committee for Advance of Money to the Com- | 25 | 34-6 |
| | missioners for co. Carmarthen. We find you are held off | 91 | 114 |
| | from your duty by the allegations of Wm. Gwynn, who claims | | |
| | the Act of General Pardon. This is frivolous, because the | | |
| | debt was sequestered by the late Committee for Advance of | | |
| | Money in 1647 and 1648, and we have made divers orders in | | |
| | the case. Proceedings detailed; no payment has been made, | | |
| | all orders notwithstanding, and now we wish you speedily to | | |
| | levy the 300 l. ordered, and return the rent-roll of the estate, | | |
| | and you shall have indemnity of Parliament for what you do. | | |
| | 24 March 1653. Committee for Advance of Money to the | 24 | 64 |
| | Trustees for Sale of Delinquents' Lands. We hear that Wm. | | |
| | Gwynn intends to have the lands in his mortgage surveyed as | | |
| | the Earl of Worcester's lands, and then to buy them back from | | |
| | the State, hoping thereby to avoid our orders, and get them | | |
| | more cheaply than by paying the debt. We desire you to stay | | |
| | these proceedings, and let the money due on the mortgage be | | |
| | paid into our Treasury. | | |
| NOTE 91 116 | 28 Nov. 1653. Order in the Committee for Petitions that Dallison, | 91 | 115 |
| | registrar to the Committee for Advance of Money, appear to | | |
| | testify in the case of John Clarke and Wm. Gwynn. | | |
| | 25 Jan. 1649. Information that several parcels of gold, jewels, | 91 | 117 |

| | daughter VISCOUNTESS MONTAGUE. | | |
| | 16 April 1649. Jas. Scudamore [of Penrose, co. Monmouth] | 91 | 118- |
| | to [Corn.] Holland. I send you a note of things I delivered to | | 119 |
| | Lady Montague, by order of my late Lord, for the use of Lord | | |
| | Harry. If these are taken away, I cannot imagine how our | | |
| | young Lord can subsist, for want of money. Be careful in | | |
| | this weighty business. My Lord Marquis told me that the | | |
| | money quilted in canvas was 2,000 l. With receipt by Lady | | |
| | Montague from Scudamore of 180 bunches, and 140 lesser | | |
| | bunches of coined gold quilted in canvas, and an enamelled | | |
| | gold chain of 50 links, sent by her father, the late Earl of | | |
| | Worcester, 2 Jan. 1647. | | |
| | 25 April. Order that the said gold and jewels be seized and | 6 | 289 |
| | brought to this committee. | | |

| | Nov. ? Deposition by Hen. Parker, that 6 years since, he was | 91 155 |
| | sent by the Committee of Safety with Mr. Milner to Worcester | |
| | House, to search for money concealed there. That in several | |
| | rooms he saw sumptuous household stuff, worth 2,000 l. , but | |
| | Milner said they were so undervalued that the State would not | |
| | make above 500 l. or 600 l. by them, and that some goods were | |
| | not valued at all, because Mr. Glynn protected them, and for | |
| | doing it, was gratified with jewels to a great value. That | |
| H. 91 156 | some rooms could not be searched, because Glynn had the | |

| | 26 May. Information that Wm. JONES, of Usk, co. Monmouth, | 21 219 |
| | owes a debt of 1,200 l. to the late Earl. | |
| | [27 June 1649]. Jones states that on a suit at law with the late | 91 159 |
| | Earl about a debt 15 years ago, he agreed to pay it by 115 l. | |
| | a year, and did so till the surrender of Raglan Castle, 3 or 4 | |
| | years ago, and then he thought he might as well have the | |
| | money as the State have it, and begged the Earl to deliver | |
| | him up his writings; but the Earl replied he knew no reason | |
| | why he should give Jones 1,200 l. , though only 700 l. now | |
| | remains due. | |
| | 27 June. Order that the county commissioners certify how | 7 81 |

- Jan. 1646? Col. Wm. Underwood petitions that he had command of the horse guard at Kensington, and for his better attendance, took a ruinous house of Mr. Wheeler, M.P., at 5*l.*, agreeing to do the repairs, on which he has spent 40*l.*, and which he has used one year and part of a second. Requests continuance therein free, as he took it for Parliament service, and has made it tenable, and also lent money for support of this kingdom, and for Ireland, beside adventuring his life in the service, for which he has large sums owing, but only desires this dwelling of Sir Rob. Fenn's. 92 38
- 4 Feb. 1646. Col. Underwood is to deliver the key of [Fenn's] house in Kensington, sequestered by this committee, to Mr. Jennour, to whom it is demised, or to the clerk of the committee. 4 414
- 20 Feb. Order that the collectors break open the door of the house, and give Jennour possession. 4 433
- 23 March 1646. Order that, as Sir Robert has long since been assessed at 200*l.*, and his house at Kensington seized towards the assessment, and as Col. Underwood has refused to deliver up the key to — Jennour, M.P., to whom this committee has let it,—the officers go to the house, demand quiet possession, and if refused, be saved harmless in breaking open the doors and taking possession. 4 460
- 6 April 1646. The sheriff of Middlesex with his trained bands to assist in taking possession of the said house. 5 8
- 15 April. The said sheriff to appear and show cause why he has not executed the said order. 5 18
- 20 April. Col. Underwood appearing, and promising to give up possession of the house to-morrow, the officers are to repair to the house and take possession. 5 21
- 15 May 1646. Lady Fenn to live in her husband's newly-built house at Kensington till further order. 5 34
- 15 May. Sir John Lenthall to bring Sir Rob. Fenn, who is in his custody, before this committee on Monday. 5 34
- 16 Sept. 1646. Sir Rob. Fenn petitions that having, by leave of Parliament, attended on his Majesty in the duties of his office ever since his unhappy withdrawing from London, he was unable to pay his assessment punctually, and therefore his estate was sequestered; but he came in before 1st Dec. last (1645), and is since returned to a better understanding, and by taking the negative oath and national covenant, is enabled to compound. His wife also is now restored to her habitation in part of his new building in Kensington (his former mansion house being yet otherwise disposed of), she paying the same rent as paid by Mr. Firth, who now holds it, but is willing to resign it. 92 39
- P.E. 92 40 Will do his uttermost to satisfy the committee, and declare the value of his estate on oath, and begs to be admitted to a reasonable composition for his default, without having to deposit such a sum as he could not advance except on desperate terms; begs also that his wife may be put into possession of the rest of his new building on the same terms.
- 16 Sept. Order that Sir Robert be restored to that part of his house at Kensington now held by — Firth at 4*l.* a year, and the 7 acres of land held by — Monnyns, Sir Robert paying 25*s.* an acre. 5 101
- 13 Nov. 1646. Order that he have his house in Kensington where Col. Underwood lives for his dwelling, at the rent and fine formerly paid. 5 135

17 March 1647. Sir Robert petitions that his estate was sequestered when he was absent in Oxford, by leave of Parliament, for non-payment of his assessment of 200*l.*, and he conceives that that sum has already been paid by his tenants; he begs that an account may be taken, and he discharged of sequestration, having already compounded for his whole estate at Goldsmiths' Hall.

17 March. The account of the receipts from Sir Robert's rents to be made up, and then he to be heard about his assessment of 800*l.*

17 Sept. 1647. Reasons by Sir Rob. Fenn why he should compound for his land in fee at $\frac{1}{2}$ of one year's revenue. The imposition is only $\frac{1}{6}$ of yearly revenue, and $\frac{1}{20}$ of personalty, on payment of which the lender may claim the protection of the Parliament army, and there is no fine for non-payment, except the loss of the sum, if not paid in 10 days. When assessed in August 1643, his usual residence was at Oxford; not knowing of it, he could not pay, but he was not considered a delinquent till the following December; was absolved Jan. 1644, and so remained till Nov. 1645, when for some unknown causes, he was again sequestered. If it were because he did not return from Oxford on the first summons, he was bound in soul by his oath, and in body by a powerful garrison. He did confess himself a delinquent at Goldsmiths' Hall, but he had the desperate choice to do it, or starve himself, his wife, and his children. Thinks the 900*l.* paid at Goldsmiths' Hall, with his constant paying of Parliamentary taxes through the war, should be his purgation for any crime, as he never bore arms, lent money, or did any act contrary to law or Ordinance, and hazarded all his relations in Court to cast himself at the feet of Parliament before 1 Dec. 1645.

18 March 1650. Information that Wm. Wheeler, late M.P., took the rents and profits of Sir Rob. Fenn's estate at Kensington for 4 or 5 years, amounting to 2,000*l.*, beside trunks of money, plate, &c., of great value, for which he has not accounted. Some of these were sequestered by the County Commissioners for Gloucester, Hereford, and Westminster, but he prevailed with the officers, instead of prizing and selling them, to deliver them to him and his wife, for the use of Fenn, to the amount of 2,500*l.* for which Wheeler's estate is liable to sequestration. - [25 May.] Statement by the Bishop of Rochester - - - 92 173
- I-left my abode at Bromley, but you shall judge whether voluntarily or no.

1. The carriage of the people, especially near London, to Bishops was such that it was not easy to pass near them without reproach, and even danger.

6 Oct. 1643.

2. I was affrighted, morning, noon, and night, with soldiers coming for arms, horses, and money, and calling me a Popish persecuting bishop, though I prosecuted Papists, and never troubled any Protestant for his conscience.

3. What most moved me to depart was that, being assessed Sept. 1643 in Kent for 500*l.* for my $\frac{2}{6}$, which I could not then pay, my estate was sequestered, and yet this committee demanded 2,000*l.* more assessment, and I was told that I should be imprisoned, and my books and goods, even to my beds and coats, were taken from me. I gave the reasons for my departure, hoping I might return after the assessments were paid, and withdrew to some clergy friends in Surrey, thence to Hants and Berks, and then "my ancient near friend, the President" brought me to Magdalen College, Oxford, where I had my diet free, and the use of the library, and settled the possession of some lands near Oxford.

Thence I went to friends near Chester, then to the Bishop of Bangor, then to my old friend, the Chancellor of Hereford, thence to my wife's kindred in Bronsfield, Salop, and to Ludlow; thence I came voluntarily to London, and a year since last October, I wrote to a peer and to an M.P. to procure my peace with Parliament. I should have come up in February last, but was prevented by sickness: I came, when better, with a pass from the Governor of Hereford.—I protest that for 5 years past, I have not contributed to the King by advice, action, money, horses, arms, or any other way.

25 May 1646. Order that Dr. Warner have 14 days to send to Shropshire, and have liberty to go to Bromley, and break open the door of a room, sealed by this committee's officers, returning in 14 days. 5 43

19 June 1646. The Bishop ordered to appear on Monday. - - 5 47

[Dec. 1646.] Petition of Sir Hen. Sanburne—I borrowed 6,000*l.* of the Bishop on mortgage on Stretley manor, and have long since paid 1,000*l.*, and the manor is now seized into your hands. I appeared before you last March, and declared my willingness to sell the manor, but I cannot find a chapman, because it lies near Wallingford, where the enemy's garrisons are. Also by my restraint, and the practice of John Allen, who intrudes into the manor, I cannot receive the rents towards my maintenance and payment of the debt, and there is great waste and spoil. I beg your assistance therein, as my lady and I are aged, and we have 6 children unprovided for. I have lost 8,000*l.* by the King's army, and the manor will not sell for its worth at the time of the borrowing of the money. 92 174

[Dec. 1646.] Complaint against Sanburne that, though he engaged to sell the land, he did nothing in it, and it was June before Colonel Forbes could get him to set a price on it. Then he would not produce the title, and Forbes had to search for it in the Rolls Office. Sir Henry declared there were no charges on the land except 2,000*l.* to Lady Clarke, but it was found to be burdened with debts exceeding by 6,000*l.* Sir Henry's valuation, so that nobody will meddle with it, and Sir Henry pretends this is because it lies so near Wallingford, which he knows to be false. Forbes has had to be at all the trouble and expense, as Sir Henry would do nothing. 92 175

Reasons for supposing he cannot be without money:—

1. He is very penurious, never spending more than 300*l.* a year, and has an estate of 1,600*l.*, with a stock value 3,000*l.*, of which he pretends to be plundered.

2. He has debts of 11,000*l.* and never paid principal or interest, nor provided for his children.

6 Oct. 1643.

3. He has tried to bribe Colonel Forbes to withdraw the prosecution. The money may be raised by sale of wood on his lands, but he is not to be trusted, for he never dealt honestly with any one whatsoever.

- 23 Dec. 1646. Order for discharge of the sequestration on Sir Henry's lands in Stretley, as it appears that they were demised 12 years since to Lady Clarke, widow. 5 165
- 2 April 1647. Dr. Warner to prepare a particular of his estate, and bring it in to committee next week. 5 233
- 16 April. Account of his estate. His debts are 4,200*l.*, spent chiefly in the purchase of lands; 4,000*l.* has been levied for his $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{3}$, the main occasion of all his sufferings and losses, and his spiritualities have been long since seized. 92 176
- P.E. 92 177-180 5 May 1647. His estate being cast up, and his fine at $\frac{1}{10}$ being 5 251
P.D. 92 181 182 858*l.*, and at $\frac{1}{3}$, 2361*l.* 1*3s.* 4*d.*, order that he pay forthwith 429*l.*, DEF. 92 183 being the $\frac{1}{2}$, and give security to pay the rest, or any greater fine imposed by the House, in 3 months.
- 27 May. Parliament Order that on his compounding with the Committee for Advance of Money, they have power to discharge his sequestration on his paying $\frac{1}{2}$ his fine. 5 289
- 14 Sept. 1647. Order that he pay 100*l.* at once, and the rest of the first half in fortnightly instalments of 100*l.*, when the sequestration of his estate will be suspended, the other $\frac{1}{2}$ to be paid in such manner as this committee shall appoint. 5 286
- P.E. 5 289 22 Sept. Order to the County Committees of Kent, Isle of Wight, and Berks, that as he has submitted to his fine, and paid $\frac{1}{2}$, they are to forbear further proceedings on his estate on pretence of sequestration, but he is to be satisfied with the rates at which any part of it has been leased, and he is to enjoy the rents from last Lady-day. 5 290
- CERT. 92 184 23 Nov. 1647. John Cox, Stretley or Cholsey, county Berks, to be 5 312
REC. 92 185 committed to Peter House till he has paid the 20*l.* in arrears for
REC. 92 186 rent for the land he holds of Sir Henry Sanburne, for which he has given bond, but refuses to pay.
- 21 Jan. 1648. The officers to proceed de novo in sequestration of Dr. Warner's estate in Kent, because he has not paid the $\frac{1}{2}$ of the fine on composition to which he submitted. 5 350
- 24 Jan. M. Dallison to [Bishop Warner.]—To prevent new trouble coming on you unexpectedly, I advertise you that the committee has ordered a new sequestration of your lands in Kent, but I shall not issue the order till Friday, hoping that meantime you will give satisfaction. 92 187
- BILL 92 188 28 Jan. Order that on Warner's giving security to pay 229*l.* 5 354
DEF. 92 189 before 25 March, and 100*l.* next Easter, his sequestration be suspended.
- 11 Feb. 1648. John Allen [of Bassildon, co. Berks], tenant to part of the estate on mortgage to Dr. Warner from Sir Henry Sanburne, to pay to this committee 42*l.* 1*9s.* 0*d.* owing by him for arrears of rent, and to be saved harmless in so doing. In default, it is to be levied on his estate. 5 367
- 16 Feb. On the Bishop's paying 129*l.* and giving security for the other 200*l.*, he is to have till 15 May for payment. 5 370
- 3 March 1648. John Cox, who holds lands belonging to the Bishop of Rochester in Stretley, to pay to the Committee for Advance of Money 20*l.* due for rent thereof, and to be indemnified for so doing. 5 391
- 21 June 1648. The Bishop's estate to be again sequestered, he not having paid the $\frac{1}{2}$ of his fine as he engaged to do. 6 17
- 27 June. His sequestration to be suspended on his paying 50*l.* now, 50*l.* in a month, and 100*l.* at Michaelmas, to make up the of his fine of 858*l.* 6 19

| 11 Nov. 1648. | Bishop of Rochester to Dallison.—I asked till Michaelmas to pay the 150 l. because I expect to receive as much from the lands compounded for, but from Stretley (for which I have to pay 200 l.), I have in 9 years only received 41 l. , and can expect nothing till Lady Clarke, Mr. Barker, and the other creditors, who have extended the lands on judgments and leases preceding my mortgage, are satisfied. From Apse, in the Isle of Wight, (for which I am to pay 358 l.) I cannot receive a penny. As to Monkton in Thanet (for which I am to pay 300 l.), the lands and rents are sequestered by the County Commissioners, and they require 46 l. from me for land which they let to tenants who so misused it that now it will not let at all, and there is 2 s. in the pound for army charges, of which 20 s. is paid by the landlord, and 4 d. by the tenant. I beg further time, and assistance to take off the sequestration thus unduly laid on. | 92 191 |
| 4 May 1649. | Order that Dr. Warner make up $\frac{1}{2}$ his fine, and give security for the other $\frac{1}{2}$ in a month, and then the sequestration will be taken off and the tenants will pay their rents as formerly, so as to enable him to make his last payment. | 6 313 |
| 11 May. | He having paid $\frac{1}{2}$ his fine of 858 l. , and secured the other $\frac{1}{2}$, order that the sequestration be discharged, and the tenants pay him their rents. | 6 322 327 |

| 28 Nov. 1649. | He failing to pay within the 30 days, an order given for seizure of his estate, and the tenants not to pay him any further rents. | 8 41 92 192 |

| 10 April 1650. | Order for payment to Col. Forbes, the discoverer, of 30 l. , being the $\frac{1}{2}$ of 60 l. received from Stretley manor, sequestered from Dr. Warner and discovered by Col. Forbes. | 8 284 |

Waller, and would have contributed to the Scots' advance had he been able. That he is ready to take the oath, and owes 900 l. , and cannot pay it unless he sells his land. Request for stay of proceedings, as too great a sum is laid upon him. | 92 193 |

| 12 Oct. 1643. | | |
| | 2 Jan. 1644. Elton complaining that he is hindered by the County Commissioners in receiving the residue of the money due on his judgment,—order that he be first paid before the estate is sequestered, the rather as he gave information of the estate, which would otherwise have been concealed. | 2 210 |
| | 30 April 1644. On the petition of John Higden [St. Clement's, Temple Bar], stating that he had an extent on Bacon's lands before that of Mr. Elton, who has received rent for part of the lands, order that Higden receive the last $\frac{1}{2}$ year's rents, and that he and Elton appear 20 May, to be heard about their extents and Elton's receipts; the County Commissioners for Suffolk to take notice, and assist therein. | 3 91 |
| | Also, as Higden alleges that John Miller had a right to Bacon's lands, by an extent before Elton's statute, which Miller assigned to Higden,—order that the tenants pay their rents to Higden, any former order notwithstanding, the County Commissioners to take notice thereof; and as Higden alleges that Elton has received 317 l. for the Michaelmas $\frac{1}{2}$ year's rents, both are to attend the committee thereon 20 May. | 3 98 92 194 |
| H. 3 121 | 19 July 1644. Higden having falsified the order of the committee, by inserting words therein after it was signed by the clerk, and a bill being filed in Chancery to discover whether the debt due to Higden is real—it being supposed to be a made debt, assigned by Miller, who was with the King, to free it from sequestration,—the order of 30 April is made void, and Higden is not to disturb Elton in receipt of the rents. | 3 184-6 |
| CASE 92 195 | 1 Nov. 1644. On information that, the last order notwithstanding, Higden has put some tenants out of their farms, and threatens the rest, to hinder them from paying their rents to Elton, on pretence of his previous extent; also on proof that Rob. Marsh (who was assessed for his $\frac{1}{20}$ and has paid) had a judgment of 600 l. against Bacon for a debt of 300 l. , and has taken out an extent after Elton is paid, and he and Elton are suing Higden and Miller in Chancery, on plea that the debt was a pretence to save Bacon or Miller's estate from sequestration, both being sequestered delinquents, and an injunction being granted for quieting Elton in possession of the lands,—order confirming all previous orders in favour of Elton, and discharging those in favour of Higden; the rents to be paid to Elton, not to Higden, and Rob. Marsh to proceed on his judgment when Elton's debt is satisfied. | 3 277-9 |
| NOTES 92 196 197 | 10 Oct. 1645. The two officers who arrested Nich. Bacon when attending this committee to be brought in custody to answer their contempt. | 4 288 |
| | 19 May 1648. The business between Elton and Higden referred to the clerks of committee, to examine and report. | 6 3 |
| | 2 June 1648. Higden's account of debts paid by him for Miller, 747 l. , and of moneys due to him by Miller, 788 l. ; total 1,535 l. | 92 198 |
| | July 1648? Statement that Higden confesses receipt of 1,012 l. from the estate, and that in Chancery he only pleaded payment of one debt of 440 l. , therefore the rest probably belongs to the State on account of Miller's delinquency. | 92 199 |
| ACCTS. 92 201 CASE 92 202 203 | May 1650. Statement by John Base, solicitor to the County Commissioners for Suffolk. The Committee of Goldsmiths' Hall have ordered me to seize Nich. Bacon's estate for not prosecuting his composition, but it is extended to Higden on an assignment from Miller; the debt was only 600 l. , and Higden has received 1,014 l. 6 s. 2 d. , and still keeps on his extent. I request that the case may be examined, and the overplus secured, that the State be not defrauded. | 92 200 |

| DEP. 93 11 DEP. and CERT. 93 12 REP. 93 13 | 14 Jan. 1652. Dethick pleads that this debt of 756 l. 15 s. was sequestered in December 1643 by the Commissioners for Sequestration of London from Mrs. Anne Parker, his now wife; that Gibson being in Flanders, where he has turned Roman Catholic, attached the estate of Mrs. Parker in Flanders for the debt, on which account it has, till lately, been allowed to remain in petitioner's hands. Begs an order to pay in only $\frac{2}{3}$ of the debt, Gibson having been sequestered for absenting himself and not paying his assessment, and for recusancy, but not for delinquency. | 93 14 |

| LET. 93 15 CERT. 93 16 17 | 4 Feb. Order, on full hearing of the case, that there is no reason to reverse the former order for sequestration of Gibson's estate, as a recusant and delinquent; that the first discoverers of the debt were the late Commissioners for Sequestration at Camden House in 1643, but that as Nich. Cheltenham and the late Wm. Ford have been at charges in renewing the case, they be allowed 1 s. in the pound between them, viz., 17 l. 10 s. to Cheltenham, and 17 l. 10 s. to Ford's children, by the administrator, Edw. Webb. | 11 178 |

| 8 Nov. 1643. | DAVID EDWARDS, Redrith, Surrey. | |
| | Assessed at 400 l. - - - - - | 63 83 |
| [18 Nov. 1643.] | He petitions that, being assessed at 100 l. by the County Commissioners last August for his $\frac{1}{20}$, he shewed that he had paid 28 l. on the propositions, which they allowed and accepted 5 l. for the present. That last November he had a ticket for 400 l. from the Haberdashers' Hall assessors. The County Commissioners bade him make oath before them as to his $\frac{1}{20}$, which he said was 45 l. , and paid 12 l. to make it up. | 93 49 |
| | He then stated his case to the Haberdashers' Hall Committee, but was told he must make up his payment to 200 l. before he could be heard. This being impossible, he elapsed the 10 days for payment. Was then ordered to make oath before the Lord Mayor and to pay 17 l. more or be committed; and now Jarvis, an officer, demands 5 l. , being his salary for the whole 400 l. , and 10 s. for the warrant, which petitioner was obliged to pay. Begs repayment, having shown his affection to Parliament by a liberal contribution. | |
| 29 Dec. 1643. | Order that the 17 l. deposited by him, with 28 l. lent, be in discharge of his assessment, it being his proportion. | 75 165 |
| 12 Jan. 1644. | County Commissioners for Surrey to the Committee for Advance of Money. Statement of Edwards' case as above detailed. On hearing it, you said he ought not to pay two-twentieths, but should have his money restored, yet he is denied, on some claim that he ought to pay an assessment laid on [Thos.] Winder. We are obstructed by such complaints (which reflect upon us who sit to advance the service) that people who have been assessed by us are again assessed at Haberdashers' Hall, and we beg redress. With notes of reply that it was Edwards' own fault to pay more in Surrey when he had once cleared; that there had been no stay of repayment on pretence of Winder; and that if persons were re-assessed by the Committee for Advance of Money, they could clear themselves on oath as to their proportion. | 93 50 |
| 23 Jan. | Order that the money he paid in Surrey after he was re-assessed be repaid him, and that the 5 l. paid, and what was formerly lent be in discharge of his assessment, being his proportion on oath. | 2 237 |

SIMON WOOD.

Petition that for 15 years he has had no concern in the City, and for 7 years no house, and only comes in on account of lawsuits at Westminster. Has very little money, having laid it out on lands in cos. Lincoln and Notts, now under the power of the Cavaliers in Newark. Has paid freely on the propositions, contributing 40*l.* in Essex, and is maintaining 5 men here in the city, and paying weekly moneys for maintenance of the forces where his lands are; yet the parishioners of Aldgate, where he lately sojourned in an inn, have assessed him at 500*l.*, and 40*s.* a week, sought his person, though 70 years old, and seized 30*l.*, being most of his money. Begs discharge of the assessment which he is unable to pay, "that his grey hairs may go to the grave in peace." With note that he lives at Mr. Trafford's house, Walthamstow, hard by Sir Wm. Rowe.

| 13 July 1644. | Account by Jas. Hart, jun., of passages relating to Darcy's assessment for 400 l. His ticket was delivered him, but he pleaded that his land was under sequestration. Finding no such order, we got a ticket to apprehend him, and as he is non-resident, we had great difficulties in finding and getting hold of him, though I saw him in the Bishop of Winchester's Yard, viewing the riding of the great horse, but he had many armed acquaintances with him, and we, being unarmed, could not seize him. I stayed his rents in his tenants' hands, and had been invited to a venison feast, intending to seize him there, but he did not come. I went to Surrey and found the sequestration was taken off his lands, and I got to the house of a tenant where he was, and stayed all night, but could not get to see him. I said I would stay a month but I would see him, and then he sent for me to his room, where he was sighing and groaning over his debts and engagements. I advised him to come to this committee, promising him freedom from arrest; he came, and also took his affidavit before the Lord Mayor as to his estate, but they enjoined him to pay 30 l. more than his protestation was for his lands in Kent. | 94 20 |
| | He said he had paid and lent in money and horses 600 l. , and his lady had a statute for 6,000 l. for payment of 400 l. year, and a Parliament Order for its payment. His lands in Derbyshire will not be worth 800 l. a year for 5 years, because of raising portions for his sisters. His yearly revenue is only 500 l. ; his personalty consists of his clothes, and horse, which any man may have for 15 l. ; his debts are 1,500 l. He offered me his estate for 400 l. a year, but his mother having been kind to me, I would not take advantage of him. I hope you will grant his discharge. | |

| | 16 Dec. 1644. The Common Council of London having in 1643 promised to lend Parliament 50,000 l. , and rated the same on the City companies, for repayment of which Parliament made over to them 2 months' weekly assessments of several counties, amounting to 60,000 l. ; but as great part of the 60,000 l. came not in time to hand, the Militia Committee borrowed 1,000 l. of Steph. Estwick, to be repaid from the first money of the companies that came in; and many of the Militia Committee have spoken of Estwick's great prejudice in being kept so long without his money, and in Oct. 1644, presented a paper, under 11 of their hands, desiring that the City companies might be compelled to pay in their arrears, or that the Militia Committee might be enabled to repay Estwick the 1,000 l. , which has been done by this committee;—order that the treasurers of money and plate at Guildhall, London, pay Estwick the 1,000 l. out of the money paid by the said companies, and do not dispose of any part of it till Estwick is paid. | 26 March 1644. | JOHN RADLEY, Shenfield, Essex. | | |
| | The inhabitants of Shenfield petition the County Commissioners. There have been differences in the parish, which hinder service, now when religion and laws are at stake, and we should be united against the common adversary. John Radley has occasioned much strife by a rate for raising 3 dragoons, which he has levied very unequally, and he has had warrants issued to distrain on those who never denied payment, but were only hoping to be righted. He also suppressed a poor-rate legally made, and raised one unequally rated, without consent of the churchwardens and his fellow overseers. There being no sessions of peace, we present these disorders to you and beg relief. | 94 | 161 162 |

| | 9 Aug. 1644. He petitions Parliament.—I have had notice, dated 31 May 1644, to pay an assessment of 3,000 l. , to be repaid on the Public Faith if paid within 10 days. I live 60 miles away, where I pay scott and lott. I cannot attend you without your leave, being a prisoner, but if you will order this, I will declare my condition and estate. I am imprisoned on a charge of treason, and cannot even pay my prison charges, much less so large a sum, as my tenants pay me no rent, and my credit is taken away by my unhappy condition. I beg relief, and freedom from the penalties of wilful neglect. | 95 89 |

| o.c. 3 336 | 10 Jan. 1645. Statement by Serj. Glanville of his own case. He did not desert Parliament, but going away by leave, on his return, was taken prisoner and carried to Oxford, where he did all the good offices in his power. Being returned to his house in Wiltshire, the Lord-General sent a party of horse for him when he was out, but he wrote for a pass, obtained it, attended his lordship, and having his pass, returned to London. He is old and in debt, and has a wife and 6 children. His estate lying between Oxford and Bristol, and about Plymouth, has been unprofitable 2 years, and part is sequestered by the King's commissioners. | 95 91 |
| | He paid in 1642 600 l. towards the reducing of Ireland. He begs that 2,400 l. may be accepted as his fine and composition, to be paid part in land, and the rest as soon as he can borrow it, and that he may have a subsistence left for himself and family, and a Parliament Order to free him from all delinquency and punishment, and from his imprisonment, and all seizures, | | censure, restraints, &c. Noted that he is to pay 3,000*l.* on days appointed, and 1,000*l.* more when his Ordinance is passed by Parliament, to whom the last clause of his request is to be represented. With note of his consent thereto.

18 May 1646. The assessment of John, alias Wm. Glanville, of Lincoln's Inn, his younger son, taken off, he having no estate, but a small exhibition. 5 38 pounding that Serj. Glanville's composition for his $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{10}$ is referred to the Committee for Advance of Money, and leave granted him to stay in town to attend it.

ii. 5 334 28 Dec. He deposes that he did not return to Oxford willingly, but returning towards the House of Peers in Parliament, he was seized in bed at an inn near Newbury, and before he could dress, was taken prisoner by 20 of the King's troopers, the Friday in Easter week, 1643, and conveyed to Oxford. 95 92

ii. 5 338 5 Jan. 1648. He is to bring in particulars of his estate, in order to his composition for delinquency. 5 340

12 Jan. Observations on his case, by himself.—I am without money and in debt. The Parliamentary soldiers took from me horses value 150*l.* I surrendered 14 June 1644, when the King had great armies and strong garrisons, and on 20 June 1644, was committed to the Tower. On 10 Jan. 1645, desiring to obtain my liberty and practice for a maintenance, I cast myself on the favour of Parliament, and submitted to a fine of 4,000*l.*, and had then been in prison 7 months, and I so continued 2 years and 2 months after, during 6 of which I was grievously sick, finding the Tower a place of great charge and much restraint. 95 93

On 14 May 1645, when the rumour of my submission came to Wiltshire, a party of the King's forces burned my dwelling-house at Broad Hinton, worth 8,000*l.*

On 4 Oct. 1645, it was ordered that componders should be dealt with on the propositions of both kingdoms, but this should not apply to me, as I had surrendered 16 months before.

Pray cast your eye on the articles for the surrender of Oxford. The propositions of 11 July 1646, laying a heavier fine on sergeants and counsellors at law, should not affect me, as having surrendered before 31 Oct. 1644.

Arguments in favour of a reasonable composition. The County Commissioners of Devon and Cornwall have, since my submission to Parliament, received 300*l.* or 400*l.* out of my estate; and in May 1647, when I went, by leave of the House of Peers, to Bath to recover my health, the County Commissioners of Wilts sequestered my estate, and sold stable and goods for 800*l.* I beg a day for hearing, no report having been made to Parliament in 3 years, and many things material having occurred.

CERT. 95 94 12 Jan. Order thereon for a hearing, on his preferring a petition 5 344
P.E. 95 95—acknowledging his delinquency and wish to compound, bringing 104 in a more perfect particular of his estate, cast up by the clerks
CERT. 95 105 at $\frac{1}{10}$, and certificates of his taking the covenant and negative oath.

21 Jan. He petitions to be admitted to a moderate fine for his delinquency, having been long away from home, and in the King's quarters in 1643 and 1644, and also composition for his $\frac{1}{5}$ and $\frac{1}{10}$. 95 106

21 Jan. Order thereon, and on certificates of his having taken the oath and covenant, that his fine be proceeded with to-morrow. 5 348

22 Jan. He begs to have but one moderate fine set for delinquency and for his $\frac{1}{10}$, not to exceed the rate of Oxford articles, with mitigation for his long imprisonment, the burning of his home, 95 107

| DEP. 95 115 116 | 23 April 1652. Thos. Larkham, late minister of Tavistock, for himself and the inhabitants, petitions that when Lamerton rectory was settled on the ministers, it was ordered that 50 l. should be paid to Tavistock, which was done, but Walter Godbeare, clothier, and Wm. Grills, merchant, the surviving trustees, and John Pointer, the tenant, keep the profits, and are insolvent; out of 4 harvests, petitioner has only received 50 l. , so that many thousands of poor ignorant people are like to be without a minister. Begs redress of this abuse. | 95 117 |
| | 23 April. The County Commissioners for Devon to summon Godbeare and Grills to account for the profits of the rectory, and pay the arrears, or show cause to the contrary, and to examine Pointer as to what he has paid to the trustees, and how he holds the premises, and to take other examinations to discover the abuse. | 11 364 |
| | 24 May 1652. Grills, Godheare, and Pointer to the County Commissioners. We showed you our deeds and accounts last summer, and have not received any profits since. We had an order from the Committee for Plundered Ministers to pay them the remaining profits after the payment to Tavistock. | 95 118 119 |

8 July 1644.

This business does not concern you. Sir John Glanville would not be so indiscreet as to make over to us what he had no power to do, and there is a deed in the Parliament chest which will take off all scruples.

- LET. 95 120 4 June 1652. Committee for Advance of Money request to see 25 11
121 Glanville about the tithesheaf of Lamerton, co. Devon, which he settled on the State, in part of his composition.
- 22 June. Larkham petitions that the rectory was sequestered on 95 122
Glanville's delinquency, the profits, being 90*l.* a year, were taken in 1645 and 1646 by Pointer, in 1647 and 1648 by Thos. Stert of Curriton, and in 1649-51 by Grills and Godbeare, so that the State is defrauded, and petitioner has only had 50*l.* instead of 50*l.* a year for the 4 last years. Begg that as the offenders refuse to attend the County Commissioners, their dishonesty and obstinacy may be punished, "and they be made to know what it is to contemn your power," and that he may have his rights.
- 22 June. Order thereon that, as the reply of Grills, Godbeare, and 12 29
Pointer is not satisfactory, they appear to pay the arrears, or in default, be brought up in custody by the serjeant-at-arms.
- ACCTS. 95 124 [July 1652.] Grills, Godbeare, and Pointer petition that they are 95 123 men unfit for travel, the youngest being more than 60, and one very ill. Beg that the accounts sent in may be accepted, and proved before some gentleman near; are willing to pay over the surplus to the Committee for Advance of Money, if they may have a discharge.
- 21 July. Order that the County Commissioners call them to 12 76 account, allowing for just disbursements, and that they pay over the balance to the said Commissioners, who are to pay Larkham and the other ministers their arrears, and that Larkham have liberty to take exception to the accounts. The County Commissioners are also to certify why the sheaf of Lamerton was let at 75*l.* when Glanville compounded for it at 90*l.*
- DEP. 95 125 8 Dec. 1652. Larkham petitions that, as the offenders have not 95 128
LET. 95 126 appeared before the County Commissioners when summoned, LET. 95 127 and Stert also refuses to give in his accounts,—they may all four be taken into custody to answer their contempt, and there remain till they have performed the orders.
- 8 Dec. Order that the four named pay their surplus to the County 12 241
Commissioners, who are to allow reasonable taxes, and to pay the ministers, bring in the deed of settlement, and in case of default, be taken into custody, and that the said Commissioners take the sheaf of Lamerton into their own possession.
- 20 April 1653. John Pointer, the tenant, remonstrates against 95 129 the order for the County Commissioners to take the sheaf into their hands, having a lease of it in July 1649 for 11 years, at 75*l.*, and having held it for 4 years to the content of the parishioners. He begs to be confirmed therein for the rest of his lease.
- 20 April. County Commissioners to certify the value of the 12 341 rectory, and other matters suggested in the petition.
- PET. 95 130 13 July 1653. Pointer renews his petition to retain his lease, as 95 131 the change will be a great trouble to the parish, undo him, and be no benefit to Larkham or the ministers. Complains of the conduct detailed of the trustees and the County Commissioners.

| | | A or p. |
| 22 July 1644. | | 3 208 |
| | 2 Aug. 1644. Report of the Committee for Plundered Ministers, that Thos. Weld and John Storer have taken great pains with the parish for 1½ years, and deserve 120 l. a year each, but Weld has only received 90 l. and Storer 50 l. Also that the former collectors of the tithes should be called to account and fresh collectors named appointed ;—order thereon that Weld and Storer be paid at the rate of 120 l. a year for time past and to come, out of the tithes and profits of the vicarage. | 3 211 |
| | 13 Aug. Archdale Palmer, Major Manwaring, and John Christ- mas to gather in the rents and profits, pay the said preachers, and pay the residue to the Committee for Advance of Money for Dr. Fuller's assessment. | 3 216 |
| | 16 Aug. Order that their deputies be allowed 6 d. in the pound on all the moneys they collect. | 5 136 |
| LET. 95 156 | 13 Nov. 1646. Wm. Frisby to be heard concerning payment of tithes to Cripplegate rectory. | 95 157 158 |
| | 29 Jan. 1647. John Storer, minister, complains that he has only received ½ the stipend of 120 l. allowed him, and no arrears, so that 200 l. is unpaid, and begs that the sequestrators may be sent for, to know the reason of this neglect, and course taken for redress. | 5 184 |
| | 29 Jan. Some of the inhabitants of St. Giles's to appear about arrears of their tithes. | 5 202 |
| | 26 Feb. 1647. The clerk to draw up a report to the Committee for Sequestrations on Fuller's case. | 95 159 |
| | 2 April 1647. Weld and Storer, petition jointly the Committee for Advance of Money. The sequestration of Giles's Cripplegate depends on you for Dr. Fuller's non-payment of his ½, and you (on advice of the Committee for Plundered Ministers) have appointed us to officiate at 120 l. a year, arising from the dues. But by the malignancy of some, the errors of others, and the poverty of the rest, we are 300 l. short of our allowance ; though on our petition for relief, divers of the parish who have not paid have been summoned, this course has proved ineffectual, through their not appearing, and the committee's not sitting or having important business. We beg redress. | 5 233 |
| | 2 April. The Committee for Plundered Ministers to take such means as they think fit to recover the tithes from the inhabitants for better payment of the ministers, and the sequestration on Fuller's estate suspended till further order. | 5 341 |
| | 5 Jan. 1648. The ⅓ of the profits of St. Giles's Cripplegate, seques- tered for the delinquency of Dr. Fuller, and for non-payment of his ⅓, to be allowed to his wife and children, beginning from Christmas, according to an order of the Committee for Seques- trations of 22 Dec. last. | |

| | | Vol. No. |
|----------------------------|--|-----------------|
| | | A or p. |
| 28 July 1644. | 31 Oct. 1645. Walter Powell, clerk, owing Sir Ralph 2,600 l. , the debt to be sequestered, and he to pay the money to none but this committee. | 4 309 |
| | 3 Dec. 1645. Sir Ralph assessed at 3,000 l. , and Sir John at 4,000 l. | 69 119 |
| | 21 Oct. 1646. John Dutton's assessment renewed - - - | 71 45 |
| | 12 May 1648. John Dutton being within the articles of Oxford, respited till further and special order of this committee. | 5 436 |
| H. 6 119 | 8 Nov. 1648. Powell, who still holds the debt, to compound with this committee for it, and to be indemnified. | 6 101 |
| | 28 Dec. 1648. Information that Sir Gerard Fleetwood has a judgment of 3,000 l. on lands of Sir Ralph Dutton. | 21 143 |
| | 21 June 1650. The debt of 2,200 l. (sic) due by Powell to the late Sir Ralph Dutton, being claimed by his brother John Dutton, the case is to be heard on 10 July, and Dutton and John Poole, his solicitor, to attend, and bring the deeds and writings relating to the debt. | 8 391 |
| | 28 June. Powell complains that, Sir Ralph Dutton being dead, his brother John lays claim to the money, and enjoys the profits of the land till it is paid. He being absent two terms, to obtain a hearing in the case, John Poole, Dutton's solicitor, and 2 or 3 other malignants, obtruded another minister into his living, that he might not have means to prosecute the case. Begg dismissal, or a speedy hearing, or a summons to Dutton and Poole to attend and make their defence. | 95 186 |
| | 13 July 1650. Powell begs speedy hearing. Owing to the delays of John Poole, the cause, which was second in order of hearing, now stands 20th, and thus these delinquents try to weary him out. | 95 187 |
| | 19 July. Poole petitions that Mr. Dutton lives 60 miles off, and is debarred by the late Act from coming to London, and that the writings are in petitioner's custody, 80 miles away; there have been tedious suits of law in the case, so that longer time will be required. He begs time, reference of the case to a few persons to state it for a hearing, and the sparing of Dutton from personal attendance. | 95 188 |
| H. 9 43 o. 9 53 | 19 July. Case to be referred to Reading, and Poole to attend for Dutton. | 9 48 |
| | 11 Ang. 1650. Order on hearing the report that that part of the Standish Manor and other lauds belonging to Sir R. Dutton, extended by Sir Gerard Fleetwood, be sequestered by the County Commissioners, and that Fleetwood account therefor. Also that Sir Ralph's heir and Fleetwood prove their respective interests in the premises, and then orders will be given for a composition. | 9 90 |
| LET. 95 189 DEP. 95 190 | 15 Sept. 1650. Order for an account with the auditor of Fleetwood's receipts, to which Powell may make exceptions, and Fleetwood is to depose before the County Commissioners that the statute entered into by Sir Ralph is real, and without fraud, and has not been released by him. | 9 140 |
| o. 9 277 | 18 Dec. 1650. Order on a debt of 2,600 l. on mortgage of lands in Standish Manor, co. Gloucester, long since extended for a debt to Sir Gerard Fleetwood, compounded for by John Dutton, Sir Gerard's assignee, on the late Act for mortgages, and on Powell's relinquishing his interest in all other estate of Sir Ralph Dutton's, that Powell be dismissed attendance about the debt. | 95 191 |
| | 17 Jan. 1651. Order that Powell be dismissed personal attendance | 9 371 95 192 |

|---------------|--|----------|------------|
| | 19 June 1647. County Commissioners of Salop to the Committee for Advance of Money.—Being ordered to raise money on the propositions, we assessed Leveson, who paid part of the money, and gave security for the rest, and now we hear he is summoned to London, to be again assessed, and to pay there the money due to us. We have lately had an order for payment of soldiers, and have paid 3 regiments going to Ireland, so that our payments grow greater, and our receipts less; we therefore beg we may receive the moneys assessed on Leveson and others in this county. | 95 | 197 |
| | 20 July 1647. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners of Salop.—We desire your reimbursement, but you must not proceed against Leveson, because he has been assessed as one of the M.Ps., who, in 1643, deserted the House. Also all who compounded at Goldsmiths' Hall, are to compound with the Committee for Advance of Money for their $\frac{1}{20}$. You are to restore the goods taken from him by distraint, or their value, and proceed no further thereon. | 5 95 | 280 193 |

Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners of Salop.—In spite of our order, and though Leveson has compounded with us for 500 l . for his $\frac{1}{20}$, you are distraining him for it. It is unjust and scandalous to make a gentleman pay twice the same duty, and if you proceed further, you will be reported to Parliament. | 95 | 199 |

Stafford, petitions that Leveson has omitted from his composition lands in Salop and Stafford, value 400 l . or 500 l . a year, and he can prove this; he begs leave to have a commission to examine witnesses, and $\frac{1}{2}$ of his discovery. | 95 | 201 |

| | Aug. 1651 ? Smith petitions that, though his new charge was entered by the registrar, it was delayed, and he put to charges by an order to Carey, to see if it was not the same as the charge before the Commissioners for Sequestration, who discharged Hall unduly by dint of corruption. That much corruption is now used by Hall and his agents, and the depositions were only certified by a counterfeit certificate, which he holds himself obliged to discover. Begg that as an order has been given to examine his miscarriages, there may be also one to examine those of the Commissioners for Sequestrations through corruption, and also the present corruptions, and that Giles Hancock, one of the County Commissioners, Edw. | | 3 Sept 1651. Committee for Advance of Money to Wallop and Jervoise. Unless you pay the money requested on 24 June, we must levy it on your estates. We request you to meet us with Sir John Danvers, that we may come to some conclusion. | 17 11 24 161 |
| | 3 Sept. Committee for Advance of Money to Danvers. Hearing that you are too unwell to come to us about your debt, we give you till Friday week, when we have desired Jervoise and Wallop to be present. | 24 162 |
| NOTE 17 41 | 17 Sept. The case to be considered Friday week, and Jervoise and Wallop to be present, and there being 1,140 l. due over and above what is alleged may be had of them, further order will then be given. | 17 24 |
| | 7 Oct. 1651. Committee for Advance of Money to Wallop and Jervoise. Having long waited the fulfilment of our orders, we are now obliged to order your rents to be stayed in the tenants' hands till the 500 l. due to Mr. Phipp has been paid, and we hope you will not force us to levy it. | 17 43 24 173 174 |
| | 22 Oct. The stay of rents on Jervoise's estate suspended because he has undertaken that before 1st Jan. 380 l. —his proportion of the 815 l. —shall be paid; the other 435 l. is due from Wallop. | 17 61 |
| | 26 Nov. 1651. Order on R. Cole's petition that the registrar certify it, and that it be then referred to the Army Committee. | 17 97 |

| | 21 Jan. 1652. Petition of Lady Eliz. Griffin, and of Audley, Henry, Elizabeth, and Katherine Grey, her grandchildren, and children of Angel Grey, for justice and relief. In 13 Charles, Lady Griffin invested 3,000 l. with Angel Grey, in trust for herself during her life, and then for the children, and it was put out to interest to Sir J. Danvers. When Grey compounded on Oxford articles, this 3,000 l. was named as in trust, yet by mistake it is returned as the concealed estate of Angel Grey, and part of it is paid into the treasury, and the rest to be paid, to petitioners' utter undoing. | 96 173 -175 |

| | 10 Nov. Rich. Cole begs an order to the discoverers for the usual salary paid to officers of the committee, he being the only person employed in carrying letters and summonses in the case. | 96 | 187 |
| | 14 Nov. The discoverers to appear this day fortnight, and the registrar to certify what is customary in such cases. | 12 | 190 |
| LET. 25 46 | 8 Dec. 1652. Cole pleads that his last petition was referred to Mr. Martyn, counsel for the discoverers, but they will give him no satisfaction unless compelled. The officers have always been paid their salary first, and then the discoverers have had $\frac{1}{3}$ of the remainder. He begs that his case may be reported to the Army Committee, as to the part of the salary due to the State, and that he may have present relief, being ready to perish in prison. With certificate of Ralph Cobbett and 5 others in his behalf. | 96 | 188 |

| | 28 Feb. 1653. The trustees, Wm. Yorke and Thos. Yates, to the Committee for Advance of Money. We are willing to pay the debt as ordered, but beg that the bond may be ready to be delivered up and cancelled, or it will be a great loss to that part of the estate on which it was secured. | 96 191 |

| | Order that Mr. Lane lend her 100 l. till an Ordinance can pass for her use. | 3 243 |
| | 3 April 1648. Whereas by Order in Parliament of 30 March last, she is to receive 1,500 l. from money in the hands of Lord Paulet's tenants, order that Rob. Hacker and Nath. Denham receive the said 1,500 l. from the tenants, raising it by distraint in case of refusal, and the tenants are required to pay their rents to them, and shall be saved harmless in so doing. | 5 416 |
| | Also order that on receipt of the said sums, or any part thereof, they pay it to Roger Hill and Wm. Chaplin of Taunton, who are to return it to London for the aforesaid use. | 5 415 |

| | 29 Aug. 1648. Committee for Advance of Money to the County Commissioners of Somerset. We sent you down 4 months ago the Ordinance about Lady Drake, but there have been such obstructions raised to proceedings on the orders about Lord Paulet's estates that, though in 4 months the rents are nearly 2,000 l. , besides the demesnes of Hinton, allotted to his lady for her $\frac{1}{2}$, yet only 600 l. has been collected, though the parties have used all diligence. The rents of Petherton rectory, though ordered to be kept in the tenants' hands, have been received by you, and converted to other uses. You are to call before you the tenants who detain the greater sums, and order the restoring of such as have been diverted to other uses. With note of like letter, mutatis mutandis , to co. Devon, making the rents 600 l. instead of 2,000 l. , and the receipts 150 l. instead of 600 l. | 97 12 |
| | [1 Oct. 1648.] Nath. Denham complains that in 6 months he has only been able to raise 87 l. 4 s. 9 d. , being so obstructed by the refusals of the tenants, some of whom say they have paid their rents to Lord Paulet or others, some to the County Commissioners, some to Lady Paulet for her $\frac{1}{2}$, being much more than it amounted to, and others refuse with threats to pay at all. He begs a summons against 6 tenants named, but if all their rents were paid, the sum would still be 400 l. short of the 1,500 l. | 97 13 |
| | 1 Nov. 1648. Geo. Sampson, of Lopen, co. Somerset, who was summoned to pay in 9 l. due to Lord Paulet and assigned to Lady Drake, discharged, on proof that it is paid. | 6 93 |
| | 1 Nov. Others summoned concerning rents for lands of Lord Paulet's in their hands, assigned to Lady Drake, and Lady Paulet to produce her order for claiming the same as her $\frac{1}{2}$, granted her by the Ordinance for Sequestration. | 6 96 |

I was sequestered 5 Jan. 1646, by the Committee for Sequestrations, but they thinking this was hard measure, on 8 Jan. referred the case to Parliament. After long waiting I renewed my petition, and the case was before the Commissioners for Sequestrations, Commissioners for Compounding, and Barons of Exchequer, and was sent to the House for a rehearing, and the sequestration was suspended till, by your order of 20 Juns last, my remaining goods were seized by the sub-commissioners, and are now exposed to sale, unless there be a stay. I will do my best to get a hearing in Parliament, but meanwhile beg reference to counsel, and a report. | 98 | 14 |

The Elizabeth, 160 tons, laden with 556 hogsheads of tobacco, paid in custom 800 l. , the David 190 tons, with 417 hogsheads of tobacco, 600 l. The Reformation was lost in Ireland, coming homewards from the West Indies, but was compounded for. Baltimore compounded with the above owners for the customs, and received the money by virtue of the Great Seal. It is conceived the King was not then in a condition to bestow so great a gift, and it is doubted whether the Seal so produced was the King's Great Seal; and if it were, whether it were not procured upon promise of bringing some of the Parliament ships to the King. | 21 260 |

That Leigh was in arms against Parliament, his estate was sequestered, and he is now dead. A fine is pleaded in the Exchequer and a deed in 10 Charles, vesting Wingfield's estate in trustees, but the deed is supposed to be fraudulent, and made to deceive the creditors who had judgments on the estate, as Wingfield let and sold land without consent of the trustees. | 21 | 75 |

Hall, of St. Clement's, for a bond which they have for payment of a large sum to a delinquent in arms [Woolley Leigh], which would not only satisfy petitioner but afford a surplus to the State, but Keet and Hall now refuse their covenant, intending to conceal the money, by compounding with the parties bound, and to deliver them the bond to be cancelled, to the prejudice of the State. | 21 Nov. 1651. | Petition of Rob. Wilson, guardian to his brothers Richard and Thomas, under age. Their mother, in her widowhood, 5 years since, bought Keythorpe Manor, co. Leicester, of Fras. Wayte, and left it to his 2 brothers, who have held it till lately disturbed by Hobson, who had a Parliament Order to raise money from Leigh's estate. Hobson found that the Waytes entered into a recognizance to pay Mintern 2,000 l. on behalf of Leigh, long before this manor was purchased, yet he tries to raise 1,000 l. on this estate. Begs that Mintern and Leigh's executors may recover the sum in law, dormant securities and matters of trust against purchasers being only examinable in Chancery. | 98 | 69 70 |
| 21 Nov. | Brereton to state the case and report, Hobson having notice, and no executions against Keythorpe Manor to proceed. | 17 98 | 92 71 |
| BOND 98 73 | 26 Nov. Information that Woolley Leigh, on settling his estate at marriage, reserved power to charge part of his lands with payment of 3,000 l. ; that when at Oxford, and under sequestration, he conveyed part of his lands to John Thynne and Sir Hnm. Tracey, empowering them to receive the 3,000 l. , and they have held the lands for years, and made no composition. Also that Mrs. Leigh holds lands and leases of houses in the Strand without composition, and conceals divers goods of her husband's. Mrs. Leigh summoned to appear as a witness. | 22 98 | 335 72 |
| E.W. 28 151 152 | 19 Dec. 1651. Mrs. Eliz. Leigh to bring in her deed of jointure, wherein power is reserved to charge lands in Addington, which were sequestered by the late County Commissioners, with 3,000 l. , or else to appear and show good cause to the contrary. | 11 | 21 |

| REP. 98 79 | 28 Dec. Order that the debt owing on the recognizance is not pardoned by the Act of Pardon, there being a judgment in Oct. 1651, before that Act; that it was in trust for Leigh, and that 1,000 l. was his own money, and forfeit for his delinquency. But as there is no proof that the Waytes bought the bond, and as the recognizance was to be vacated on entering into a new one to Mr. Dudley, which was done, and 500 l. paid him thereon, to the end that Hobson may have such remedy as Leigh's executors ought to have had for recovery of the debt,—order that the County Commissioners for Leicester secure in the tenants' hands $\frac{1}{2}$ the rents of Keythorpe Manor, and that Rob. Wilson prefer his bill in Chancery, to ascertain why the Waytes entered into the recognizance to Minton, and what agreement was made for cancelling it, and entering into one to Dudley. If any Chancery injunction be had, the seizure will be taken off such part of Keythorpe rents as shall be obtained by order in Chancery. But the debt on this recognizance is not to take precedence of any other recognizance, or judgment of older date. | 13 20 | 51 61-64 |

| | 21 Nov. Petition of Sir Gabriel Vernatt, owner of land in Hatfield Chace Level. On the delinquency of the Duke of Buckingham, owner of the fee-farm rent on this level, the County Commissioners of York required payment of rents to them, and petitioner's share was stated at 150 l. , but abated to 100 l. , 50 l. to be paid at once, and 50 l. at Michaelmas. But before Michaelmas, Mr. Gibbon came with 2 officers and the committee's orders to receive the rents of the level. He informed them of his agreement with the York Commissioners, but offered to pay them his proportion for his lands in co. Lincoln, and they were content and promised not to proceed. Yet under Gibbon's direction, the officers seized his horses and beasts, valued at 300 l. , sold for 44 l. , 10 horses worth 150 l. , forced from his | 99 47 |

| 24 May 1650. Petition of Capt. Wm. Farrer, for himself, Mark Valkenburgh, and other owners of land in the Chace. The level was to be drained by Vermuyden, he, the King, and the commoners having each one-third; the King's third was conveyed to Vermuyden, as well as his own third, on rent of 1,228 l. He sold part to Dutch gentlemen, part to Mr. Gibbon and others. Gibbon was to pay 65 l. a year, and was much in arrears, but by untrue information, got defalcations, and was only to pay 2,000 l. in lieu of 7,000 l. due. Instead of paying this himself, he levied 697 l. from persons who were to pay little or no rent, and got bonds for 490 l. 15 s. more. Beg restoration of the money and bonds. With account of the proportions of the fee-farm rent of 485 l. granted to the Duke of Buckingham which are to be paid by John Gibbon and 8 other tenants, according to a calculation made 12 July 1637. | 99 | 59 60 |

| 28 June. Order that the officers of the Committee for Advance of Money and George Wood levy the sums due from those who stand engaged for 490 l. 15 s. 0 d. , in part of the arrears for Hatfield Level, unless Mr. Gibbon show cause to the contrary; as there has been hnt 697 l. 1 s. 0 d. of the 2,000 l. paid, and bonds given in for 490 l. 15 s. 0 d. , Gibbon is to pay the balance by Friday next. | 9 | 9 |

| | 6 Aug. 1652. On depositions in behalf of the Epworth inhabitants, that they are not liable to the rent, and that if they were, Wood and Beverley have levied more than they ought to have done, besides the 2s. in the pound fees; and on reading Wood and Beverley's accounts of their receipts, and their orders for levying the rent, there being no decree apportioning the rents on the different manors, it does not seem that Wood and Beverley have transgressed orders, but they are to bring in particulars of their charges in levying the fee-farm rent, and the causes will be heard next term. The tenants are to pay the next $\frac{1}{2}$ year's rents to Wood and Beverley, and in case of refusal, they will be levied. | DEP. 100 37 -39 | 16 Jan. 1649. County Commissioners of Northampton to the Committee for Advance of Money. On your order, we send up his charge and depositions. | 100 | 40 |
| DEP. 100 41 42 | Jan. Information against him on the following articles:— | 100 | 43 |
| | 1. That Gray, with other country gentlemen, met privately several times near Wellingborough, and agreed that if any of them should be fetched away by the Parliament forces for disobedience, they would raise their party about the country to rescue them. | | -45 |
| | 2. That Gray was fetched from home by a party from Northampton, and that he and his servants opposed them, and gave orders to chime the bells backwards, so as to raise the town and county, which being done, the townsmen rose, and the county came in, and divers were slain, and amongst others Capt. Sawyer, a most godly and eminent man to the Parliament cause, and a justice of the peace for the county, who came to persuade the people to be quiet. | | |
| | 3. That Gray sent his kinsman, and one of his servants, with two horses and arms, to the King's army; and two years after, when his servant, Wm. Soanes, returned home, he gave him free entertainment, but his kinsman was slain at Newark-on-Trent in the King's service. | | |
| | 4. That Gray animated and encouraged the officers of the town and county when the Commission of Array came into those parts, and said that this carried meat in the mouth, was according to law, and of more worth than the militia, and thereupon issued warrants under his own hand in pursuance thereof. | | |
| | 5. That he advised divers persons, if they should be fetched away for not conforming to Parliament, to rise and plunder the Parliament's friends. | | |
| | 6. That he advised divers persons to go to Kettering, upon the summons of the Commission of Array for the county. | | |
| | 7. That he refused to send in his arms and ammunition upon the summons of the country to bring them in to the garrison of Northampton, for security from the enemy, but bought more at the beginning of the late troubles, some of which were called blunder pieces. | | |
| | 8. That he commanded, in contempt of the Ordinance of Parliament, proclamation to be made, the Wednesday before the Fast Day, that the market should be kept every Wednesday, | | |

without any respect to the monthly Fast Day, and he still causes his men to set out stalls upon that day, although the minister of the town, and some well-affected persons, duly observe the fast.

9. That he molests divers persons who have yielded obedience to the orders of Parliament. With notes of witnesses to be examined thereon.

Lambton is dead, and Bellasis is with the King's garrisons in the North. Langley is best able to pay it at a day's warning, and right himself on the others, so there is no reason to admit him to pay $\frac{1}{3}$, for if one of the obligers is discharged, all are discharged in law. | GEORGE BAYLIE (late), Recusant. | |
| JANE, his daughter, wife of THOS. EMERY, lunatic in custody of the Court of Wards. | |
| WM. GARBUTT, Emery's guardian. | |
| Jane Emery petitions that her father, being aged and infirm, and there being divers rooms in his house in Long Acre, she lodged there during her husband's absence in the country, and placed there the evidences, accounts, &c. of estate, with husband's goods, linen, and apparel, beside 10 l. cash and 5 silver spoons which Capt. Greyson took from her. She, with others in the house was taken before the Committee for Examinations, committed to a messenger, and referred, by order of 7 July instant, to this committee. Is ignorant of any offence, and her poor husband greatly suffers by her absence. Has lent and paid freely from his estate on the propositions of Parliament. Begs that the captain may restore the money and spoons, and the rest of the goods and writings, and she may be set free. | 100 167 |
| 7 May 1646. Deposition by Jane Emery that her late father was a recusant, but not a delinquent, and that all the writings belonging to his estate, and that of her husband, who is a lunatic, were taken away last July from her father's house in Long Acre, and Wm. Garbutt, her husband's guardian, has been unable to recover them. | 100 168 |

| [29 June 1646.] Garbutt petitions. Emery, being a Protestant, was disposed of to the daughter of Mr. Baylie, a recusant, and Emery never had 200 l. with her, though promised 1,000 l. Becoming a lunatic, his tuition was granted to John Apsley, of Gray's Inn, on bond with Sir John Shelley, to preserve the estate, but he much neglected it, on which petitioner got the tuition transferred to himself. Baylie, having sold lands of value in cos. Lincoln and Herts, died last August, and part of his personalty should have come to his daughter, Emery's wife, but Capt. Greyson had, a little before, taken away all the writings, and brought them to this committee, where they remain. | 100 169 |
| Begs the evidences concerning the lunatic, Mr. Baylie, and Sir John Shelley's estate, which he has separated from other writings found in the house, and so much of Baylie's estate as belongs to his daughter, and will then further the State as to what is due to them for Baylie's recusancy. Begs the immediate restoration of the goods, deeds, &c., or leave to recover them by law, as the tenants detain their rents, and the sea walls and houses decay for want thereof. | | of the widow of Sir Edw. Petto, and others who had arrears due to them, that the Earl owed 1,200*l.*, with interest, to Pennington, and in Feb. we desired Lord Howard of Escrick to speak with him about it; but he being a member of the House of Peers we could not then enforce payment. The Earl promised to consider of it, but nothing has been done. Since the dissolution of the House of Peers, we have intended to press payment. The informers are to have half for their arrears, the rest is for the State. Col. Midhope and others have no interest in the discovery.
